Probate Revisions To Cut Red Tape

By ROSE WILSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has handed a massive three-bill package designed to revise Michigan's complex probate code.

The package — designed to cut red tape and slash the cost of settling estates in probate cases — cleared the House Judiciary Committee on Tuesday after more than two years of debate.

"The system must cut red tape but also provide adequate safeguards," said Rep. Monte Gerald. "It is this balance that the package is designed to accomplish."

The Madison Heights Democrat, a sponsor of all three bills, headed a subcommittee that was given the task of drafting the package. It now goes to the House.

One of the bills would give probate judges the power to dispose of almost all issues that affect estates. A probate judge's power is presently limited and often more than one judge must be consulted before an estate can be settled.

"As a result, parties sometimes found themselves in two different courts to resolve questions which could easily be taken care of in one court," Gerald said. "This change will help to avoid unnecessary delays and expenses."

The largest portion of the package — a nearly 200-page bill that has been amended several times — provides for an "independent probate" system which minimizes court supervision.

The independent system would eliminate many of the preliminary hearings required under present law. It also would do away with certain filing procedures, such as the preparation of an inventory to be filed with the court.

Former Lawmaker Loses Appeal Of Heroin Ruling

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Former state Rep. Dale Warner is on the losing end of a Michigan Supreme Court ruling declaring that evidence used in his heroin trial was admissible.

Tuesday's Supreme Court decision upheld a lower court ruling. Warner, a 36-year-old Republican lawyer who lived in Eaton Rapids at the time of his arrest four years ago, now lives in San Francisco and says he's indigent. He held office from 1967 to 1974.

In August 1973, police raided a Lansing motel room after receiving a tip from the motel telephone operator. The woman said she had overheard a female occupant of the room tell a male caller, "I've got drugs."

Officers raiding the room said they saw Warner in a bathroom trying to flush down the toilet a syringe, a burned bottle cap and some pieces of metal foil. Packets of heroin also were found in the room.

But Warner contended in his trial in Ingham County Circuit Court that the evidence wasn't admissible because it was obtained as the motel operator illegally listened to the telephone conversation.

The court agreed and refused to admit the evidence. Prosecutors appealed the ruling to the Michigan Court of Appeals and won a reversal. Warner then appealed to the state's highest court.

The Supreme Court split 3-3, thus letting the Court of Appeals decision prevail.

Ingham County Prosecutor Peter Houk said he would begin work to set a trial date. However, Houk said, prosecution will be impossible if all the witnesses can't be located. "That's one of the things we're going to be looking at," he said.

Agreeing that the evidence was admissible were Justices G. Mennen Williams, Mary S. Coleman and James L. Ryan. Dissenting were Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh and Justices Charles Levin and John Fitzgerald. Justice Blair Moody Jr. didn't take part.

The federal wiretapping law says the right to suppress evidence applies only to the person who would be damaged by it. Trial testimony, Williams said, didn't show that Warner was the aggrieved person. Warner later said he was the caller and circumstantial evidence showed this. Williams also defended authorities, saying police committed no illegal acts.

"The urgency of the situation...in addition to the potential destructibility of the drugs..." were sufficient reason to go ahead without a search warrant, Williams wrote.

In dissenting, Fitzgerald said the federal Communications Act forbids using in state courts any information obtained by illegally listening to a telephone conversation. "The court cannot be a party to a violation of these legislative mandates," he wrote.

Levin suggested that the case be remanded for further fact-finding.

Warner decided not to seek re-election after the charges were filed. He moved to Arizona and worked in a program to help indigent lawbreakers, then later moved to San Francisco. He could not be located Tuesday for comment.

Huge Social Security Tax Boost Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional panel wants to raise Social Security taxes next year for the best paid American workers and their employers to help keep the system solvent.

Under a plan approved Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee, withholding taxes would rise $238 in 1978 for those earning at least $18,000.

Lower-paid workers would feel the bite of higher taxes beginning in 1981.

The committee plan, approved 20-17 over the opposition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, calls for keeping the present system of taxing workers and their employers equally.

The measure now goes to the full House for a vote.

The proposal runs counter to a plan under consideration in the Senate Finance Committee to have employers for the first time pick up a disproportionate share of the Social Security tax.

The House committee voted for the new tax scales as part of a broader plan to keep the system running at a deficit since 1975, from going broke by 1983.

Under current law, everyone earning at least $17,700 will pay higher withholding taxes beginning next year.

This year, the 5.85 per cent tax is withheld from only the first $16,500 earned, for a maximum tax of $965.25. Under next year's higher wage base, that will go to $1070.85.

The committee, however, wants to raise the top end of the base to $19,900, with a tax of $1,203.95.

By 1981 the base would rise to $27,900. With the proposed rate increases, a person earning that amount would have $1,798.55 withheld.

And by 1986, under the committee proposal, a combination of base and rate increases would mean people earning $37,500 would pay $2,587.50, triple their present tax.

Because the committee proposal would wait until 1981 to increase rate hikes already planned, the impact on an estimated 86 per cent of American workers would be smaller and further off.

For example, someone earning $15,000 pays $877.50 this year and will have $967.50 withheld next year under the current law. But rate hikes the committee favors would raise the tax in 1981 to $967.50.

The committee voted to provide an additional safeguard for the Social Security trust funds by authorizing loans from the federal treasury when reserves fall below 25 per cent of a year's needs. The loans would be repaid later through additional taxes.

However, the authors of the proposed financing scale said that under foreseeable circumstances enough money should be provided so that the borrowing authority would not have to be exercised.

The committee endorsed raising the maximum retirees can earn before having their benefits cut.

Those who earn more than the current ceiling of $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for every $2 they report. The panel would raise that to $4,000 in 1978 and $4,500 in 1979.

The panel rejected a Republican proposal to raise the ceiling to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979.

Ruling Near In Mother's Custody Bid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A blind mother who has been labeled an unfit parent by the state is expected to find out today whether her three young sons will be returned to her.

Probate Judge Donald Owens said Tuesday he expected to issue the ruling on a bid by welfare officials to put Linda Gill's children up for permanent adoption.

The state has charged in the nearly week-long custody trial that Mrs. Gill abandoned her children when she moved from Lansing to California in 1975.

The children, two of whom also are blind, were left with Mrs. Gill's mother. The boys remain in separate foster homes where they were placed by the courts which took them from their grandmother's care soon after their mother left the state. Mrs. Gill has testified she was not aware of legal procedures necessary to regain custody of her children and that she believed her mother had "given my children away."

She also contends the state has accused her of being an unfit mother because she is a handicapped woman with relatively little money.

His Cash Goes Forth And Multiplies

WILTON MANORS, Fla. (AP) — The Rev. John Stauffer put his money where his Bible was and instructed his parishioners to go forth and make money to air condition the church. They went forth with a variety of raffles, sales — and one poker game. They made $3,500.

Re-enacting the New Testament parable of the talents, the Rev. Mr. Stauffer took out a $1,000 personal loan and gave $5 to each of his parishioners at the First Christian Church in this Fort Lauderdale suburb. The church is raising money for a $34,000 air conditioning system. "It was a tremendous success," said the 27-year-old minister. "The story in the parable was that all men are not equal according to their abilities."

says Stauffer. "What makes them equal is their effort to use their talents to the fullest. That is what we are doing now in the church."

The Bible tells how a nobleman gave a silver coin, or talent, to each of three servants. Two servants returned with more than they were given and were rewarded, but a third saved his and was admonished.

In the re-enactment, parishioner Gordon Price, used his talent, and connections as a meat supplier, to raffle some steaks. Pivling his $5 with two other church members, Price returned $178 to the church. C.J. Salerno, a cabinet-maker, used his $5 to build bird feeders, which he sold to net $78 for the church. "It was right up my alley," he said. Two families combined $50 and held a bingo party — earning $161. Others sold homemade shell necklaces, tables, and other items. Two teen-aged girls turned their living room into a restaurant and sold $10 steak dinners. Rather than the parable of the talents, some church members received a reminder of the biblical admonition: "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away."

Andrew Winkler, for example, lost his money in a card game and scrambled to recover the funds in a giant garage sale. "What I did was take my $5 and my wife's $5 and play poker and lost," said Winkler. "So we had to think of something else fast."

Trying To Contain Hospitalization Costs

State legislatures, no less than Congress, have a stake in controlling health-care costs. Medicaid, after all, uses state and local tax money as well as federal funds to provide medical care for the poor. Each state is required to provide health care for persons who qualify for public welfare. And if they choose, the states may extend coverage to "medically indigent" persons — those who do not qualify for public assistance but whose incomes are too low to pay for medical expenses. The federal share of state Medicaid funds ranges from 50 to 78 per cent, depending on the state's per capita income.

The National Conference of State Legislatures is sponsoring a two-day seminar, beginning Thursday, Oct. 13, at its Denver headquarters to help legislators understand the intricacies of rising health-care costs and more effectively oversee their own state's Medicaid programs. Richard Merritt of the NCSL's office in Washington, D.C., expects 70 to 100 persons to attend. He said one aspect of the seminar will be to look at measures taken in a few of the states to control hospital costs. These costs have tripled nationally in the past decade.

California, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Rhode Island and Washington all have created public rate-setting agencies to hold down hospital costs. Although the regulatory structures in these states differ from one to another, they all operate under the same philosophy: that it is cheaper in the long run to compensate a hospital at rates that have been set before, and not after, the health care has been delivered.

The Council of State Governments, in cooperation with the National Science Foundation, in March 1976 published a report titled Health Cost Containment. The Connecticut, Maryland and New Jersey Responses. And then last spring it followed with a brief updated report on the progress of those programs and provided a description of two others, in Washington state and Rhode Island. In each state, there was a story of modest success. In Washington, for example, the State Hospital Commission has monitored charges in selected hospitals since May 1, 1974. As of last March 31, semi-private room rates had risen 47 per cent, below the national figure of 517 per cent. In operating room charges, the difference was even greater — 42.6 per cent compared to 58.1 per cent nationally.

Despite these very modest successes, government will be able to accomplish very little of significance in controlling hospital costs unless it takes one all-important step. Government simply must cut back on its own spending. That's the chief cause of inflation, with hospitals as with everything else.

How About Government Impact Statements?

A governor of the Federal Reserve System, David M. Lilly, has an excellent suggestion which could eliminate some of the economic damage of thoughtless legislation and regulation. Just as the government requires environmental impact statements on a broad range of new projects, Lilly says it also ought to require inflation impact statements on its own actions.

Believing that inflation is the greatest threat to the economy and "could change the entire fabric of our life unless it is brought under control," Lilly advocates an inflation impact statement anytime a change is contemplated on such issues as the minimum wage and import restrictions.

The idea is not all that new. The House of Representatives now requires inflation impact statements on legislation. The Ford administration required similar statements on new regulations.

Merely issuing a statement is no guarantee of results. But at least it does start people thinking about the possible consequences of their action, and if taken seriously could stop some of the tinkering with the economy which has more political than economic wisdom behind it.

Did Mrs. O'Leary's Cow Really Start The Fire?

Did Mrs. O'Leary's cow really kick over the kerosene lamp which started the Chicago fire of 1871, taking 250 lives, doing damage of $200 million and destroying two-thirds of the city?

What brings this subject to mind is that it will be 106 years on Oct. 8 since the cow became the world's most famous animal in the annals of great conflagrations. And one whose role remains in dispute.

A decade ago Robert Cromie wrote a definitive work entitled "The Great Chicago Fire" in which he said: "The fire started in Mrs. O'Leary's cow barn on DeKoven Street, and went on from there..."

But apparently Mrs. O'Leary wasn't milking the cow at the time, having gone to bed early with a sore foot. An earlier book on the fire claims a neighbor, Pat McLaughlin, was having a party. The party guests wanted oysters and oysters needed milk to be "stewed" in. One of the group went into the O'Leary barn, lighted a candle or struck a match which ignited a pile of shavings.

While the cow was set free during the fire and was never seen again in the neighborhood, this work confides: "It may be added that just after the fire the bell worn by Mrs. O'Leary's cow was exhibited simultaneously in 81 places in Chicago."

Such was the enterprise of early-day Chicagoans.

OPPOSES TAX MONEY FOR ABORTIONS

Editor: This morning we received a request from the National Right To Life Committee, Inc. P.O. Box 2991, Tulsa, Oklahoma 74101, for a contribution to help in saving the lives of unborn, innocent children. So shall send them a contribution.

Meanwhile, we wonder what has happened to the American mind. Americans give to all kinds of "good causes." They give to the Red Cross, the United Fund, the Cancer Fund, to help fight epilepsy, et cetera. Yet they let their congress dawdle over and procrastinate over the subject of life itself. We created government for the purpose of protecting our lives, liberty, and property. Then we have to beg our representatives in the Senate and House not to use the tax money we pay them for inhuman and non-Christian purposes.

After sending people to Washington to protect our rights, we have to pay lobbyists to persuade them to do it.

People wonder why so many homicides in our country. In our humble opinion, it is the result of an attitude toward life that results from the type of thinking that allows killing of the most innocent of all — our unborn children for convenience.

If Christian people can be compelled to pay tax money to kill these "Holy Innocents," then they can be forced to pay for so-called euthanasia for eliminating the crippled, the sick, and eventually all those dubbed mentally ill because they disagree with those in power at any given time.

We pay congressmen $57,000 per year, and a $200,000 expense account which they spend on travel, mobiles, etc., to get re-elected. We think it is high time to let these people know that we expect them to protect life. We are not ready and never will be to be coerced with the communist and atheist way of thinking.

PARENTS EXPRESS 'LOVE AND APPRECIATION'

Editor: More words seem inadequate at this time to truly express our love and appreciation for all the landings shown to us in the loss of our precious daughter, Ladene, on September 22, 1977.

The love shown by this community is more than we can comprehend. Our special thanks to the Lakeshore Lancer Band, Flag Corp, Mr. Lesser, Director, and Mr. Benbenek, Assistant Director, the Lakeshore Senior Class of '78, the entire Lakeshore student body and faculty, the entire Lakeshore School System, Administrators, and all other area students.

There are those of you whom we do not know personally, who have shared your love and strength with us.

Carter Rips Fuel Clauses

WASHINGTON — President Carter has placed himself in opposition to a device which allows the nation's gas and electric companies to completely bypass state regulatory commissions while adding billions of dollars to their customer rates.

Carter's recent pro-consumer stand went virtually unnoticed because it came during a hectic day-long campaign swing through Virginia on behalf of Henry Howell, the Democratic candidate in the Old Dominion's gubernatorial election this year.

The President sharply criticized the "fuel adjustment clause" (FAC), a scheme enthusiastically embraced by the utilities when the price of oil and other fuels began to skyrocket during the 1973-4 Arab oil embargo.

The industry successfully argued that it should be allowed to automatically pass along to the consumer all the increased costs incurred in buying fuel — vast amounts of oil to generate power in the case of the electric companies and gas purchased by the gas companies.

The utilities claimed that it no longer was economically feasible for them to seek revenue increases through the traditional, sometimes protracted rate-making proceedings conducted by state regulatory agencies.

More than 40 of the 50 state commissions acquiesced, and the results have been startling. Last year, for example, state regulatory bodies granted the gas and electric companies $3.1 billion worth of rate increases after conducting formal proceedings.

But at the same time, the utilities picked up another $9.6 billion in additional — and automatic — rate increases by simply passing along to their customers the higher fuel costs. Those figures were compiled by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which reported an "astronomical" $27.6 billion worth of FAC increases from 1974 through 1976, a three-year period in which regulatory commissions authorized only $10.3 billion worth of rate hikes.

Moreover, the Congressional committee found that in many states the utilities have gone far beyond the original concept and now are including not only fuel costs but also transportation charges, taxes, fees, handling costs and even salaries.

The FAC concept ought to be drastically limited, if not abolished, because it provides no incentive for the utilities to seek any economies in their fuel purchases as long as all those costs will be immediately passed along to their customers.

"It is hard to believe," the President told a Romanow, Va. audience, "that every time energy costs go up, that utility companies automatically raise your rates and the regulatory agencies don't have a thing in the world to say about it. That ought to be changed."

In Carter's own home state the Georgia Power Co., Savannah Electric & Power Co. and Atlanta Gas Light Co. have extracted more than $65.8 million from their customers during the past three years through imposition of fuel adjustment costs.

Carter's staff reportedly is concerned about the problem but the Senate's emancipation of the administration's energy program has produced trepidation on the issue within the White House. If the President does indeed feel strongly about the issue — as he ought to — it's time to seek remedial federal legislation.

The Amish Have A Higher Source

WASHINGTON — It's rare to find an individual who isn't willing to take money from the government to which he or she is legally entitled, even if he or she opposed the idea in principle.

Sen. Richard Schweiker (R-Pa.), however, has asked the Senate to exempt the Amish, a fiercely independent religious sect concentrated in Pennsylvania, from Social Security benefits. The Amish view Social Security as insurance, and object to it on religious grounds as contradicting their faith in God's ability to provide for the future.

They don't want to get Social Security payments in their old age. In return, they don't want S.S. taxes deducted from their wages, although they have no objection to paying other general taxes.

Elsewhere in the Capital:

There's a growing feeling in the farm belt that Secretary of Agriculture Bob Berglund has less influence over White House policy than his predecessor, Earl Butz. Talking to a friend, the blunt-spoken Butz observed recently: "I'm glad I'm out of Washington. They think more of me now than when I was there."

The Senate may be growling about making the confirmation process tougher in the wake of the Bert Lance mess, but it hasn't started yet. White House aide Jim King, a gregarious, well-known fellow, sailed through his confirmation hearing for membership on the National Transportation Safety Board with "nothing but compliments and kind words. He felt so popular, he said afterward with a grin, 'I felt like a fireplug in a kernel.'"

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, who is so actively campaigning for her husband John Warner, won't be able to vote for him when he seeks the Republican Senate nomination in Virginia next year. She's not an American citizen yet. She once had dual citizenship, but opted for the British passport when she married Richard Burton (the first time). Now she has to wait the traditional three-year period required before an American may be restored to abandoned citizenship.

So why did she give up her citizenship in the first place? Referring to her marriage with Burton, she shrugged: "How did I know it wasn't going to last?"

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley told a Washington lawyer shortly before he died that the reason the 1960 presidential vote count was so close in Illinois was that he and his troops had underestimated the number of votes the Republicans would steal downstate. Thus, the number Daley stole in Chicago barely managed to tip the GOP count.

$200,000 Building Given Benton Okay

Benton Township trustees voted last night to approve a rezoning request that will allow construction of a $200,000 professional office building at 180 E. Napier Ave.

By a 5 to 1 vote, the board of trustees approved a rezoning request from Ralph Lavery, of St. Joseph. The township planning commission last month recommended the granting the request. Lavery had told the planning commission he wants to demolish a house on the lot and build a 6,400-square-foot office building. He said he wants to lease offices to physicians or insurance agencies.

The 150-by-150-foot parcel is across from Fairplain Junior High School. It was rezoned last night from residential to D-2 commercial. Trustee Dave Hanner cast the only opposing vote.

The board also voted two times on a proposal that would permit a bicycle shop to operate on the north side of Napier avenue between Norwood avenue and Pipestone road.

The first vote was 4 to 2 against changing the D-2 zoning to allow the bicycle shop. The second vote was 3 to 3 to accept the recommendation of the planning commission and let the D-2 zoning stand, thereby prohibiting the bicycle shop.

The matter was tabled after the second vote produced the deadlock.

Real estate broker Tom DeRosa, asked trustees to amend the zoning to permit the bicycle shop. DeRosa said he was representing St. Joseph Cycle Shop of St. Joseph township which wants to build a new shop on Napier in Benton township.

DeRosa said the shop would also have professional offices on its second floor. Offices are permissible under present D-2 zoning but the bicycle shop would require a change.

Clerk Larry Trail moved to amend the ordinance and was supported by Hanner who said the ordinance already lists 17 businesses allowable under D-2. Hanner said why not add bicycle shops that would be compatible with the purpose of the ordinance of creating a buffer zone between residential property and businesses that draw heavy traffic.

Opposed to amending the ordinance were Supervisor Catheryn Sirk, Treasurer Ken Malkin, and Trustees Margaret Crishall and Arnold Leonard.

Voting to let the ordinance stand and accept the planning commission's recommendation were Mrs. Sirk, Leonard and Miss Crishall. Hanner, Malkin and Trail opposed it. Trustee Nora Jefferson was absent.

Also last night, three projects backed by the Berrien County Economic Development Corp. received approvals at public hearings.

By a 5 to 1 vote, Creative Foods Corp., 1470 E. Empire Ave., received a tax break. The board approved issuing an industrial facilities exemption certificate to the company.

Charles Schrenk, county economic development director, said Creative Foods will continue to pay full taxes on its existing property and buildings. The tax break granted last night means taxes on a planned $404,000 addition will be cut in half for 12 years.

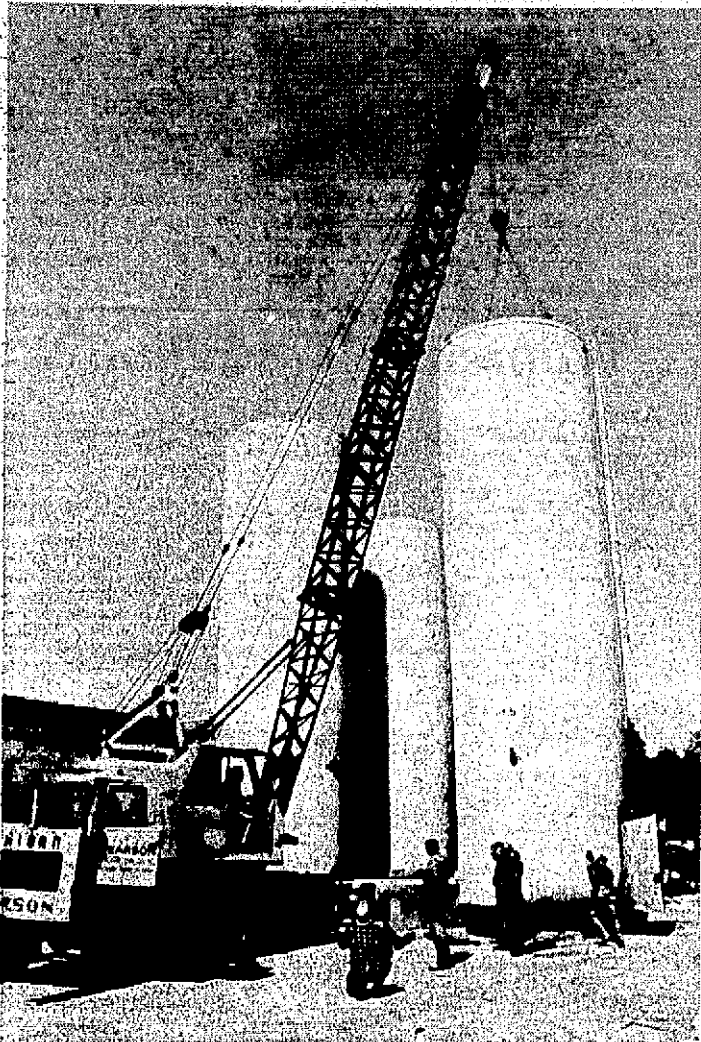

Trail voted against granting the tax break. After the meeting he said he isn't opposed to tax breaks, but in this case Benton Harbor schools need the money.

While the tax break gained final approval last night, the other two hearings led only to intermediate approvals, Schrenk said.

Project areas and projects district areas were unanimously granted to Sandvik, Inc., and Jack Jacobs Co., Chicago, representing K-Mart. The steps are part of plans to assist the enterprises by issuing tax exempt revenue bonds by the Economic Development Corporation.

The bond issues would raise $1.3 million to build a new K-Mart and smaller stores on a 20-acre portion of the Pipestone development adjacent to the proposed Pipestone Mall, Schrenk said. Sandvik would receive $1.8 million for the installation of new equipment at its present plant at 2235 Dewey Ave., in the Pipestone Industrial district, he said.

The board voted unanimously last night to establish a special assessment district on Leeds Avenue. The action resulted from a petition drive by residents who want water mains along the street, Mrs. Sirk said. At the next board meeting, details of the assessments will be discussed, she said.

NEW MILK CONTAINERS: Workmen from Pearson Construction, Benton Harbor, use crane to install one of two new 40-foot high tanks which will be used by McDonald Dairy Co., 1330 East Empire Ave., Benton Township, for storing raw milk. New tanks, with capacity of 30,000 gallons each, give plant total of four storage tanks with combined capacity of 95,000 gallons. Jerry LeClair, company manager, said extra storage is needed because of increased sales of dairy products company produces. McDonalds gets milk from about 150 farms in area as far north as Allegan, east to Kalamazoo and south into northern Indiana, he said. (Staff photo)

Lakeshore To Review New Budget

The Lakeshore school board has set a special meeting for Friday, Oct. 7, to review the 1977-78 operating budget, according to William Galbreath, assistant superintendent.

Galbreath said the board will review the budget before it is presented in a public hearing on Monday, Oct. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

Also to be discussed at the Friday session is the proposed construction of a storage building for the athletic department. The meeting will be held in the board conference room at the high school.

New Whirlpool Oven Has Touch Controls

Whirlpool Corporation will add a new model to its line of microwave ovens in November that features a fingertip touch control panel, the firm announced. The Model RFM 7800 will allow the user to set cooking cycles, times and power levels simply by touching various areas on the control panel for one-fourth of a second. Any combination of four different cooking cycles including defrost can be set to a total of 99 minutes or 99 seconds. The oven includes a temperature probe and has a 1.14 cubic foot capacity, the firm said. A minute timer can be used even when the oven is not in operation. Whirlpool's microwave line is produced at the Marion, Ohio, Division.

In between are 125 other band members with horns and flags that are objects of band's second annual weight-guessing contest. From left: Karla Shurn, Robert Sanders, Dale Martin and Karol Biastock. Prizes of $200, $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded to contestants coming closest to total weight of bandmen, uniforms and instruments without going over actual weight. Band Director Charles Bullard gives a hint — last year's Tiger band weighed in at between 17,000 and 18,000 pounds at Southern Michigan Cold Storage Co. Tickets at 50 cents go on sale Monday and can be obtained by calling high school band office. Winners will be announced Nov. 14. Proceeds will go for equipment, awards and banquet. (Staff photo)

$300,307 Benton Job Goes To 3 Local Firms

Benton Township Trustees last night awarded contracts totaling $300,307 for construction of the first phase of the township's public safety building.

The contracts were awarded to three local firms for general construction, mechanical, and electrical work. Holland Construction Co., St. Joseph, was awarded the contract for general construction after submitting a low bid of $254,000.

Construction of the first phase of the building will begin as soon as possible, project Architect Richard A. Schramm told the board of trustees. The first phase consists of the fire department section of the building.

The public safety building will be located off Crystal Avenue, behind the township hall. As planned, it will eventually house the firefighters from station 1 and the police department.

Board members agreed to wait the outcome of a decision by Federal District Judge Noel Fox on a $1.195 million public works grant for Benton Township before proceeding with the second phase of construction. The trustees also voted to have the clerk, treasurer and supervisor investigate the possibility of funding the construction with additional grants.

The township had originally planned to use a $1.195 million public works grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration to build the public safety building, but the EDA reneged on the grant because it believed an earlier $5 million grant to Lake Michigan College should be credited to Benton Township.

The township filed suit in federal district court in June to recover the grant, and Judge Fox last week ordered the EDA to come up with a new formula for distributing $2.77 million in public works grants in Berrien County.

On Monday, Fox denied motions by Berrien County and the EDA to stay his order. Berrien and the EDA are appealing Fox' order for redistribution of the grants.

Supervisor Catheryn Sirk told trustees that construction of the first phase of the public safety building will be paid from $215,000 budgeted this year from the township's federal revenue sharing account, plus part of the $200,000 in revenue sharing funds the township is expected to receive next year.

The first phase, according to Schramm, will consist of quarters and garages for township firemen currently housed in fire station 1. The second phase is a police department garage that will connect to the fire department garage. Mrs. Sirk said the township has not yet advertised for the final phases of the building, which would include a police and community room.

Schramm presented bids for the second phase, a police department garage and low bids totaled $70,793.

The contracts awarded for the first phase of construction last night also included Ideal Plumbing and Heating, Inc., Benton Harbor, $13,037 for plumbing and heating; and L.E. Barber, Inc. Benton Township, $13,250 for electrical work.

Bids submitted for general construction included Holland Construction $254,000, $262,750 by Pearson Construction of Benton Harbor, and $319,000 by Superior Home Builders of St. Joseph.

Ideal Plumbing submitted the only bid for plumbing and heating work. Bids for electrical work were submitted by Barber, Inc., $13,250; Beaudin Electric, St. Joseph, $17,208, and R & D Electric, Benton Township, $19,233.

Votes to award contracts on phase one and wait on phase two were both unanimous.

Schramm said the same contractors submitted low bids for phase two construction. For phase two, Holland's bid was $65,000. Ideal's was $4,220 and Barber's was $1,575.

Schramm said that in March, when the board directed him to complete plans for the building, he estimated phase one would cost $296,141 and phase two would cost $84,672. Bids received on the two phases actually fell some $9,000 short of that original $380,813 total for the first two phases, he said.

Former BH Grid Coach Victim Of Heart Attack

Leslie Charles Butgereit Jr., a Benton Harbor High School physical education teacher and former varsity football coach, died Tuesday evening after suffering an apparent heart attack while driving a car on West Main Street, according to Benton Harbor Police.

Butgereit, 46, of 2749 Garden Lane West, St. Joseph Township, was pronounced dead at Memorial Hospital shortly after the auto he was driving struck a parked car east of River Street at 6 p.m.

Dr. Paul Tant, deputy Berrien medical examiner, reported it was believed that Butgereit died as a result of a heart attack and not from injuries sustained in the traffic accident, according to police.

A physical education teacher in the Harbor school system since 1955, Butgereit served as high school physical education department chairman through the 1976-77 school year and was coach of the varsity football team from 1969 until 1971.

Butgereit also was varsity golf coach for 20 years before the sport was dropped by the high school in 1976.

Patrolman Delmar Lange reported Butgereit was apparently stricken Tuesday while driving alone minutes after leaving a part-time job as a salesman at Bartz Pontiac, 510 West Main.

Lange said witnesses told him the car Butgereit was driving, owned by Bartz, left the west-bound traffic lanes of West Main about 45 feet before striking a parked car owned by William Taylor, of 907 Lions Park Dr., St. Joseph.

The Taylor car was pushed forward about 20 feet and turned completely around by the impact, Lange reported, and the Butgereit auto continued west 127 feet before stopping in the center left turn lane of the road.

Lange reported Butgereit appeared to have been traveling about 30 mph at the time of crash. He said no skid marks were found at the scene, indicating that the driver was probably stricken before the collision.

Lange said when he arrived at the scene, several people were attempting to assist Butgereit whose breathing and pulse were weak.

Medic 1 ambulance attendants applied cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and transported Butgereit to Memorial but he showed only a weak response to resuscitation efforts and died in the emergency room at 8:35 p.m., Lange reported.

In addition to his duties with the high school physical education program, Butgereit had been employed as an auto salesman at Bartz for seven years.

Butgereit received 11 varsity letters in four sports while a student at Benton Harbor High School in the late 1940's and played on the Benton Harbor Junior College basketball team that went to the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas.

Butgereit joined the Benton Harbor faculty after receiving his undergraduate degree from Western Michigan University in 1955. He received his master's degree from WMU in 1966.

Mr. Butgereit was born April 8, 1931, in Benton Harbor and was a lifetime resident.

Surviving are his widow, the former Nancy Collins, to whom he was married on June 14, 1952, in Benton Harbor; a son, Timothy and three daughters, Debra, Kelleen and Becky, all at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Butgereit Sr., Benton Harbor; two sisters, Mrs. Alwyn (Ardis) Cummings and Mrs. James (Louise) Myers, both of Benton Harbor.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in Trinity Lutheran church, St. Joseph, of which he was a member. Burial will be in North Shore Memory Gardens.

Friends may call after 7 this evening in the Dey-Florin Funeral home, St. Joseph. Memorials may be made to the church.

Major Program Changes In Girl Scout Handbook

First major program changes in Girl Scouting since 1963, for girls ages six through 11, are encompassed in "Worlds to Explore," a new combined handbook for Brownies and Junior Girl Scouts.

"Worlds to Explore," published by Girl Scouts of the USA, contains many new activities for today's and tomorrow's world, but retains much that is familiar and traditional in Girl Scouting. The chief innovations within the book are projects for youngsters in the fields of science and technology and the treatment of a career, as well as the home, as a natural part of a woman's life.

The new combined handbook has six sections: an introduction to Girl Scouting, and five "Worlds to Explore" — World of Well-Being, World of People, World of Today and Tomorrow, World of the Arts and World of the Out-of-Doors. Each illustrated chapter offers a broad range of activities which girls can choose according to interest and abilities rather than age level.

The World of the Out-of-Doors section expands on the traditional Girl Scouting involvement with camping, nature and conservation. There is greater emphasis on ecology and understanding of the environment — living space, that surrounds one — whether it's on a farm, in an urban apartment, a suburban house or mobile home.

In the World of Today and Tomorrow chapter, the youngsters are introduced to the metric system, in addition to simple scientific experiments, and insights into what the future can hold for them as working women. World of the Arts includes activities in the whole range of arts, visual, performing and literary.

Activities in the World of Well-Being chapter highlight physical and emotional health, nutrition, the home, safety, and consumer awareness. In the World of People section, citizenship projects are geared to developing appreciation of differing cultures and building pride in one's heritage.

Incorporated throughout the new handbook's five worlds are certain basics that have made Girl Scouting unique and that have stood the test of time, such as the principles embodied in the Promise and Law, the concept of service and international friendship.

Pre-Renaissance Music Opens Club Season

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

The difficulty in recreating ancient music is that once a melody is performed, it is gone — unlike architecture or sculpture and other visual arts, according to experts on the period.

"A Dialogue on Medieval Music," a musical talk program illustrating the development of music from its use in early Christian liturgy was presented by Jean Bartz and the Rev. Fr. Richard N. Oltmeyer, OSC, at Three Rivers to members of Monday Musical club Oct. 3 at the organization's first meeting of the 1977-78 year.

The program was the first in a series entitled: "Moments from Our Musical Past." Other programs scheduled include renaissance, baroque, classical, impressionistic and contemporary.

According to Mrs. Bartz and Fr. Oltmeyer, all music is based on plainchant, which reached its peak in the 10th century.

During the program, Mrs. Bartz and Fr. Oltmeyer gave this account of pre-renaissance music:

"These melodies are found in their present form because of 10th century monks at a Benedictine Abbey at Solesmes, France, who restored and edited the entire body of plainchant to its 9th and 10th century form."

In 1903, Pope Pius X decreed that the Solesmes edition would be the official source of chanted song in the Roman Catholic liturgy and thus it remained until the 1960s when the church decreed that services were to be held in the vernacular — the normal spoken form of the language.

The experts described and demonstrated three types of chants — recitational, action and responsorial.

Recitational or syllabic chant, is very simple, usually one note. Most words are on one pitch, although occasional use of other tones gives the chant a sense of form.

These small cadences are used as punctuation for brief pauses.

Action chants or neumatic style, follows liturgical function. While the priest is entering the sanctuary or preparing for Communion, he is not reciting. It is during these actions that the choir sings more elaborately. Instead of singing one note per syllable, the choir sings one syllable stretched over two to five notes.

Responsorial chant is melismatic and is sung by a soloist and choir. The style contains as many as 10 to 15 notes per syllable and often includes great leaps in pitch.

One of the greatest musical achievements of Gregorian chant is that it has been in continuous use longer than any other Western music.

Mrs. Bartz said, "It completely avoids any personal sentiment which we might expect in connection with the text. It is directed to God, not man."

During the second portion of the program, pianist Debra Korrell performed works by Brahms, Debussy and Beethoven.

Miss Korrell played Brahms' light and fanciful Capriccio, Opus 116 No. 7; Debussy's delicate Gardens in the Rain; and Beethoven's intriguing 32 Variations in C minor.

Miss Korrell was awarded the Monday Musical club scholarship to Interlochen in 1973 and received the award for "Excellence in Piano Performance" each year she was a student at Lake Michigan college.

She holds a bachelor of music degree in piano performance from Aquinas college and teaches piano in the twin cities area.

Named to honorary membership in Monday Musical club during the Oct. 3 meeting were Mrs. Pasquale (Marian) Iannelli and Mrs. Karl (Mary) Schlaabach.

Artist for the day was John C. (Jack) Holme, a St. Joseph Sculptor.

Holme studied at Kalamazoo Art Center, Pendland Craft school in South Carolina and Andrews university. He has two local commissions, one for Lake Michigan college, the other for Lincoln township library.

Holme has also exhibited in a one-man show at the St. Joseph Art Center.

Luncheon chairman for the meeting was Mrs. Tom (Betty) Lounsberry. Mrs. John (Martha) Laisiere was decorations chairman and Mrs. John (Dorothy) Nedeu was reception chairman.

Monday Musical club is a member of both the State and National Federation of Musical clubs.

Casserole Takes The Prize In Michigan Beef Cook-Off

Who says a casserole is too simple to win a cooking contest?

Not Mrs. Barbara Estes of Taylor who won the 1977 Michigan Beef Cook-Off with her Beef and Corn Au Gratin. The flavorful combination of ground beef, corn, tomato, green pepper and seasoning with a tasty topping of cheese and crushed crutons is an easy, but delightful treat for anyone's family or friends.

One medium onion, chopped
One-half teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
One teaspoon salt
One teaspoon seasoning salt
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg
One seven-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
One eight-ounce can tomato sauce
One medium tomato, chopped
Two green peppers, thin sliced

Mix together:
One and one-half cups bread crumbs or crushed seasoned crutons

One cup shredded Cheddar cheese
One teaspoon parsley flakes
One teaspoon onion salt

Mix ground beef, onion and spices in electric skillet. Cook at 250 degrees stirring occasionally until meat is almost done. Drain. Stir in corn, tomato sauce, chopped tomato and green pepper. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Pour mixture into two and one-half-quart casserole. Sprinkle with topping. Bake at 350 degrees (moderate oven) until topping is brown, approximately 20 minutes. Garnish with green pepper rings and cherry tomatoes. Makes six to eight servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Three Beers Will Zonk Him

Dear Ann Landers: Will you tell me what is wrong with a man who comes home dead drunk at least twice a week? He makes it to the door, then collapses and is unable to walk or talk. I know he is an alcoholic. What I can't figure out is how in the world he can get into such a state of drunkenness in three eight-ounce glasses of beer!

How is it possible for such a small amount of alcohol to change an intelligent, good-looking, 34-year-old man into an immobilized, drooling, senseless wreck? I'd appreciate an answer. — His Wife

Dear Wife: Some people can get bent out of shape on less than your husband drinks. While others can put away a fifth of whiskey and scarcely show it. It all depends on the individual's threshold of tolerance — and obviously, your husband's is very low.

Stopped In

Dear Ann: My wife and I have been married for 12 years. I have a good job, we have a nice home and three lovely children. — a full-time housewife and mother. I work nights. I came home early a couple of times last week (didn't feel well) and found a man in my house. When I asked Trudy what he was doing there, she said he was just driving by and stopped to say hello. When I asked her how long this had been going on, she replied, "About six years."

Trudy says the reason she didn't tell me about his visits was because she didn't want to upset me. Now that I know, I am deeply hurt that she lived with this secret for so long. The man involved is a friend we used to spend weekends with. He is also married.

I'd like your opinion on this matter. — New Discovery

Dear New: Now that Trudy knows you don't approve of her entertaining a man while you are at it, that should be the end of it. If she doesn't go along, some joint counseling is in order. (Maybe his wife should be included.)

ANN LANDERS

Why Be Tactful?

Dear Ann Landers: You said, "Show me a person who is repeatedly taken advantage of and I will show you someone who allows people to kick him around."

Yes, Ann, we do allow considerable clods to kick us around. We are so concerned with being nice and friendly and polite — treating folks the way we'd like to be treated — that we are incapable of protecting ourselves against the heavies.

I am 31 years of age. When I was 20 I hated myself for letting people walk all over me. I tried to improve and, thankfully, I did. Some — but not enough.

You say we allow ourselves to be taken advantage of. You are right. But we already know that. Tell us how not to let it happen. How can we be tactful, say what we are thinking without hurting anyone's feelings — even though they may have insulted us? If you can solve this problem you will have done a lot of good for me. — N.C.

Dear N.C.: The first step is to get the earth out of your feet. You must be tactful when you allow people to kick him around."

Yes, Ann, we do allow considerable clods to kick us around. We are so concerned with being nice and friendly and polite — treating folks the way we'd like to be treated — that we are incapable of protecting ourselves against the heavies.

people insult you? I suggest considering. (Yes — again.) Find out who you are and then you will learn how to deal with others. And don't tell me you can't afford a psychiatrist. There are mental health clinics all over to help you get your head together. Look in the phone book.

How to — and how much? Find out "How What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." For your copy, send 36 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11969, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you mind giving us some information on Marfan's syndrome? This has struck close to our family and yet we know so little about it.

DEAR READER — A good place to start — and one which will be of particular interest to you — is to point out that medical evidence suggests that Abe Lincoln was a Marfan. These people often have long legs and arms in comparison to the length of the trunk of the body. They may be quite tall.

The lens in the eye may be displaced. The chest may be deformed and the hands are often large with long fingers.

The disease may be limited to the eyes, the skeleton or the heart and blood vessels or it may involve all three systems. The aorta may enlarge or dilate. The valves in the heart may become deformed causing abnormalities in circulation not unlike that seen from aortic valve damage from rheumatic heart disease.

Some historians think that Abe Lincoln would have died very soon from heart involvement if he had not been assassinated. Apparently he already had significant changes in the valves in his heart and there was no way to properly treat that problem in those days.

Half of the sons and daughters of a person with Marfan's disease will inherit the disorder. About 15 per cent of the people with Marfan's are new diseases and neither parent has the disease. In this instance there is a new mutation of the gene during genetic development that causes the disorder. Once that person starts having offspring, though, half of his children may have the disease.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter has kidney malfunction. She must drink a lot of water. The only thing she likes to drink is tea. She also does not like milk.

She makes enough tea for a few days. She takes three tea bags and fills the 20 cup electric percolator and percolates it for one hour. The tea is as dark as black coffee. The doctor knows she drinks tea but doesn't know she percolates it one hour. This bothers me. I am afraid she is hurting her kidneys. She also has her cataracts.

Please tell me what you think about tea and especially this strong brew.

DEAR READER — Your daughter may not be getting enough liquids. She should drink enough water to pass a large volume of dilute urine each day. This helps to prevent kidney stones. About four quarts of liquid a day is often recommended or enough liquid to ensure formation of two to three quarts of urine a day. The fluid keeps the unabsorbable particles that may form a stone from clumping together.

Tea, beer, fruit juices, cola drinks all may contain soluble material that is absorbed into the blood stream and may make it easier to form some types of kidney stones. One of the best fluids for kidney patients who need to consume lots of liquid to maintain a constantly dilute urine is also the cheapest — plain water. Alcohol is hard on kidneys and is not a very good way for your daughter to get fluid either.

Too much rest can be harmful. For information send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 6-6, Effects of Inactivity. Including Bed Rest. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Nibbling Popular

Nearly every American invests some of his daily allotment of food in the form of nibblers. We're a nation of nibblers.

Eating well-balanced meals that include foods from the four food groups regularly tends to decrease the desire for frequent between-meal eating.

The meat group is especially valuable since foods from it satisfy appetites with satisfying power. Meats also make nutritious snacks.

Romantic Love Is Vanishing Says MSU Psychologist

EAST LANSING — Along with all these other changes coming in people's lives, like energy supplies running out, nuclear war being a threat and young people not minding their parents, something else is happening.

Romantic love is vanishing, according to a Michigan State University psychologist and author of "On Being Human."

Dr. G. Marjorie Kinget, addressing the International Conference on Love and Attraction in Wales recently, said that romantic love is being replaced by a more down-to-earth, less idealized kind of mutual attachment which she calls "amiable amorousness," amorous or sexual friendship.

Professor Kinget emphasized that it is not love that is dying, but romantic love which is declining and possibly moving toward extinction.

Causes, she said, are radical changes in the social and technological conditions which used to account for the romantic, acute attraction between the sexes.

Romantic love, she explains, thrives on longing, separation, danger and obstacles, as encountered by Romeo and Juliet, Dante and Beatrice.

"The replacement of the traditional segregation of the sexes by togetherness in all areas, the gradual shift from sentiment to sensation, from longing to gratification, from idealization to reality-testing, have created a situation," she said, "in which partners cannot possibly develop the cosmic images and symbolic exaltation characteristic of romantic involvement."

Also gone, she said, because of moves to equality between the sexes, are the traditional attitudes of devoted protection on the part of the male and dependent submission of the female.

Whether the decline of romantic love represents human loss or gain, Dr. Kinget said, is a matter of values.

"Artists and humanistically inclined people are likely to deplore the new situation because they regard strong feelings as tending to stir people into extraordinary accomplishments," she said.

"Pragmatists, on the other hand, will consider it a boon, since they have little use for longing and the emotional drain that goes with swinging between emotional extremes."

While Professor Kinget admits that the new conditions may entail a certain flattening of emotions, she sees their effects as promising. Equal footing and a more realistic mutual appraisal, she suggests, allows couples "to move toward a relationship marked as its best by a synthesis of freedom and attachment, of loyalty and enjoyment, of permanence and flexibility and of sharing without loss of identity."

Gains, she concludes, outnumber losses. They promise a greater emotional stability in the relationship and a more sober involvement which protects against the disenchantment arising when the bond is founded on "mutual illusions and wide-eyed expectations."

American Ingenuity

Isn't it funny, I can remember the exact day I first heard the word "portable." It was Aug. 18, 1966, at 3:35 p.m. when my husband presented me with a "portable" sewing machine.

(It's probably a coincidence but that's the exact day he got his first shipped disk by lifting the "portable" sewing machine to the table.)

I didn't think much about it again until we bought a "portable" air conditioner for the den. That was — let's see — Thursday evening, the 20th of March, 1961.

(I remember saying how great it was, that the warranty covered the damages to the unit when my husband dropped it on my foot.)

Frankly, I don't know what we did before American Ingenuity discovered that if you put a handle on something or a set of wheels it became "portable."

It has opened up a whole new world for those of us "on the move."

We thought a swimming pool was out of range until we found a "portable" pool we could put up ourselves. That was... I got it, Memorial Day, 1971, to November of that same year.

(I remember saying to my husband he couldn't have swum in it anyway until they took the stitches out of his hands that he cut on the fence.)

And who could forget our portable boat that made a dent in the roof of the car, the portable microwave oven that we took apart to transport, the portable stereo that took five boys to carry, and the portable picnic table that we carried in the portable trailer.

Neither of us will ever forget the excitement of owning my first portable typewriter. At first, I worried because it hurt my arm to lift it off the floor. Within a matter of days, however, my arm stretched out about five inches and the typewriter slid comfortably across the floor while my hand stood still.

A lot of people had-mouth "portables." However, when our neighbors had their house ripped off and the portable TV was missing, they found the thief and the set within a couple of hours.

The guy was checking into a local hospital for emergency hernia repair just as the police were checking the cars in the emergency lot.

Isn't that a coincidence?

No, it hasn't. In Vanderbilt's original scoring it counted 35 — a trick. It was changed to eliminate five point scores.

Surviving Siamese Twin Making Medical History

By JIM ALLEN
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — An infant girl who was surgically separated from her conjoined sister is making medical history each hour that she lives, says the doctor who performed the operation. Dr. Steve Golladay said it is the first time an infant has survived more than six hours after an operation to separate twins born with one trunk and a conjoined heart.

Golladay said the seven-pound, 3-week-old girl is listed in critical condition and has a 50-50 chance of survival. The infant will be paralyzed on the right side, he said.

"She is really doing quite nicely with the help of a respirator," he said. "She is a really pretty little girl who drinks from a bottle and smiles."

The twins were born Sept. 14 with one trunk, two heads, two legs, two normal arms and a third arm with two hands attached to the wrist in a "praying hands" position.

One of the infants died during the five-hour operation Saturday. Her heart had a defect greater than current medical technology could correct, Golladay said.

Golladay, who designed the surgical procedure for the separation and led the four-man team that performed it, said 25 other cases of the condition, known as thoracopagus, have been recorded. Of those, four sets of twins died within six hours, three were not separated and died within 90 days and 18 were stillborn.

In Manhasset, N.Y., last week, surgeons separated two 8-month-old girls who had been joined in the abdominal areas. Both survived and were reported in good condition Tuesday.

Golladay said there was no hope that both Arkansas twins could survive because one of the hearts was irreparably deformed and was dependent on the other.

"The twin who died 'would be dead by now, I'm sure' even if surgery hadn't been performed," he said.

Golladay, a pediatric surgeon, who moved to Arkansas three months ago from Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, said the experience has been "an extraordinary strain" on him. But he said the operation was not difficult technically.

"The problem is as to what should have been done, from the moral, technical and legal standpoint," he said.

Golladay said there were some doctors who advised him to let the twins die after they learned the surviving twin would be partially paralyzed.

"I feel now and have believed that anytime you can do something to help, you should," he said.

The operation, however, was not performed until the hospital obtained a legal opinion. Little Rock Prosecutor Lee Munson ruled that one of the girls depended on the other for life and that no charge would be filed if one, or both, died in surgery.

Carter, Dayan Reach Accord

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, side-stepping a controversial American-Soviet declaration, announced today he and President Carter have agreed on a tentative formula for holding a Middle East peace conference in Geneva.

Dayan, facing reporters in the early hours of the morning following marathon talks with Carter, emphasized the formula must be accepted by his government and by Israel's Arab neighbors. He said it might well be amended in the process.

The surprise announcement was coupled with the reading by White House spokesman Jody Powell of a joint statement that pushed into the background last Saturday's American-Soviet declaration of principles intended as a guide for a Geneva conference.

The Carter-approved statement specified that acceptance of the American-Soviet initiative, which angered Israeli officials and set off shock waves among that nation's American supporters, "is not a prerequisite for the reconvening and conduct of the Geneva conference."

The statement said the United States and Israel agreed that 1967 and 1973 United Nations Security Council resolutions aimed at promoting a Middle East settlement "remain the agreed basis for the resumption of the Geneva peace conference."

While the American-Soviet declaration was not nullified, it clearly was pushed aside by Carter and Dayan, although the Israeli diplomat acknowledged that "politically it will still have its impact."

"We criticize and we do not accept many of its provisions," he declared.

Dayan said he would recommend that his government approve a working paper that would, if accepted by other nations involved, become "the agreed procedures for the Geneva peace conference."

He said he expected early action by Israel.

"It is something we have been working on a long time," said Dayan. Powell told reporters the working paper already has been discussed with Arab officials and announced that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be holding further discussions about it with the Arabs.

The Israeli foreign minister ducked all questions about the substance of the Geneva formula. "We did not come here to say what is in the working paper," he insisted.

He and Carter originally were scheduled to spend an hour and a half together Tuesday night, but held a second session that broke up around midnight. Thus they conferred for about three hours, with Dayan and Vance continuing the discussions into the early hours of today.

In talking to reporters, Dayan volunteered a hint that Lebanon might be added to the list of participants in the Geneva conference. As far as Israel is concerned, he said, "Lebanon can come in."

Carter was scheduled to meet with Lebanon's foreign minister this afternoon before returning in Washington following a two-day New York visit that featured talks with Dayan and Egyptian Foreign Minister Is-small Fahmy and an address to the United Nations General Assembly.

One of Israel's objections to the American-Soviet declaration was their interpretation that it would call for acceptance of a Palestinian state. The declaration referred to "the legitimate rights of the Palestinians" — a phrase Carter used for the first time in his U.N. address.

Battered Wife Aid Due

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A $500,000 bill to offer protection and counseling for battered wives has been sent to the floor of the state House.

The measure was approved Tuesday by the Committee on Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights. It would set up pilot spouse abuse assistance centers in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. The centers would offer emergency shelter and legal, child care and medical services, and psychological and job counseling. The money would come from the state general fund.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Daisy Elliott, D-Detroit, is one of several measures under consideration in the legislature dealing with spouse abuse.

Senate Gets Trooper Budget

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate is the last hurdle for a $96.8 million state police budget, but already the Milliken administration has promised to veto one spending item in the bill.

The bill cleared the House on Tuesday, and the Senate is slated to take it up today. The measure retains state police patrols on Detroit freeways and provides them on outstate city freeways if requested.

Aides to Gov. William Milliken said he would veto $4.5 million tagged for county sheriff's departments to help beef up patrols on secondary roads.

The sheriff's money was not part of an agreement worked out this summer on the state police budget by Milliken and top legislative leaders. And his staff said the provision indiscriminately spends funds without determining where they are needed.

Milliken called it a makeshift proposal with absolutely no research or factual data to justify it... a desperate attempt by some special interests to save face by siphoning off state money.

The bill cleared the House on a near party-line vote of 41-38.

Milliken May Veto Sheriff Patrol funds

Democrats, who control the chamber 68-42, held a lengthy closed-door caucus on the bill before supporting it, while Republicans also huddled before rejecting it nearly unanimously.

The bill is to fund state police operations during the fiscal year which began Saturday. Milliken criticized the legislature last week for not approving it sooner.

The bill got tangled up last summer in a controversy over who will patrol Detroit freeways. With strong lobbying from the state AFL-CIO, which includes the union representing Wayne County sheriff's deputies, the House voted to transfer the patrols from the state police to the sheriff's department. But the Senate reversed that.

In an attempt to win votes for the bill and placate union supporters, the agreement between Milliken and top Democrats would have provided $1 million to Wayne County for upgrading of Recorder's Court and the sheriff's department.

But the House-Senate conference committee Monday dumped that in favor of allocating $4.5 million to sheriff's departments across the state. It would be distributed on a 50-cent per capita basis, with $1.3 million going to Wayne County.

Budget director Gerald Miller said Milliken will veto that item. Milliken's aides argued most of the money is going to urban areas which don't have many secondary roads, while rural counties will not get enough to hire an extra man and one car.

Milliken's aides said such spending should wait until a special committee studying road patrols — also set up under the bill — reports on just how patrols should be upgraded.

Other key items in the bill include:

—$2 million to continue trooper patrols on Detroit freeways

—$2 million to extend state police patrols to urban freeways in outstate cities that request it.

—A $700,000 fund to upgrade services at state police posts which are not open 24 hours a day.

—$1.8 million to train officers to inspect tandem tanker trucks.

Gas Is Going Nowhere But Up

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of cooking and heating with gas is going up, whatever a congressional conference committee decides on the controversial issue of federal price controls over the fuel.

The Senate broke a lengthy impasse on Tuesday and voted 90-46 in favor of deregulation of natural gas prices. The overall bill then passed on a voice vote.

It was the most serious setback to date for Jimmy Carter's energy program, and the President immediately labeled the measure unacceptable.

"I will not sign an unfair bill," he said.

Despite the defeat for Carter, the President's congressional supporters predicted that negotiations in a House-Senate conference committee will produce continued controls at a higher price.

The conference committee is expected to begin work next week on what could be a long, bitter struggle.

Sponsored by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and James Pearson, R-Kan., the Senate plan would set the price at $2.48 for two years, then allow the marketplace to determine what producers can charge for new gas.

Controls, first imposed 23 years ago, would remain on offshore new gas for five years.

The House, in a close vote of its own, went along earlier with Carter's plan to continue natural gas price controls. It adopted the President's suggested ceiling of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet of newly discovered gas.

The President, speaking through Press Secretary Jody

Powell, termed the industry-supported Senate plan "an injustice to the working people of this country."

In New York to address the United Nations General Assembly, Carter said he expects the conference committee will approve "legislation that provides adequate production incentives while protecting the interests of American consumers."

To offset charges that the bill amounted to a consumer ripoff, Pearson and Bentsen included a provision to give residential users priority over older and cheaper natural gas reserves until they run out.

But energy specialists say the cheaper gas will be exhausted in about four years, when all customers will pay higher deregulated prices.

In its lobbying efforts on the natural gas question, White House lobbyists relied heavily on a congressional budget office analysis which said typical monthly heating bills would go from $42.00 in 1978 to $47.20 by 1985 under Carter's plan.

Deregulation would hike the monthly bill to $70 by 1985, the budget office said.

Supporters of deregulation say heating bills would rise only slightly, with one conservative estimate suggesting an increase of only $1.50 to $3.00 annually.

A critical element in the continuing battle is Senate membership on the conference panel to be appointed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. Jackson is chairman of the Senate Energy Committee and a Carter supporter.

"We ought to have a majority of conferees representing the Pearson-Bentsen viewpoint," Bentsen said. He indicated that

Settlement Try Falls Flat

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Testimony has resumed in Michigan's first PBB contamination trial after lengthy efforts to reach an out-of-court settlement fell flat. The trial was recessed in July as a mediator attempted to work out a settlement between former Roy Tacoma of Palmyra and lawyers for defendants, including the manufacturer and distributor of PBB, Wexford County Circuit Court Judge William Peterson said he expects the trial to last another two or three months. Dr. Alpha Clark of McBain, a Missaukee County veterinarian who resumed testimony for the plaintiffs Tuesday, said that in late 1973 he began to see a pattern of health problems among 50 to 60 cattle herds he serves in a three-county area. Clark said the herds had two things in common: they had been fed feed distributed by Michigan Farm Bureau Services and they all had positive tests for PBB (polybrominated biphenyl). The case is the first of more than 80 to reach court.

Atlanta's Black Mayor Triumphs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Maynard Jackson, Atlanta's first black mayor, praised the Southern city's race relations as "far superior to any city its size or bigger" after he captured more than 80 per cent of the vote to win a second term.

Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, seeking a fourth term, said his defeat was due to tough decisions "I knew would hurt me politically."

In another mayoral race Tuesday, David Rusk, son of former U.S. Secretary of state Dean Rusk, defeated incumbent Albuquerque Mayor Harry Kinney by a margin of more than 40 per cent.

And in Albany, Ga., incumbent Mayor James H. Gray Sr. and City Commissioner Mary Young battled each other into an Oct. 18 run-off in the first election since a federal judge ordered the city's voting districts redrawn to correct alleged racial discrimination.

Mrs. Young, a 34-year-old black attorney, had filed the discrimination suit three years ago. Gray is white.

Jackson, 39, who was first won office in 1973 in a close election, predicted final results would show he won more than 90 per cent of the black vote in Atlanta, which is 55 per cent black.

He conceded he got only slightly more than 25 per cent of the white vote. He called this "disappointing but very regular as long as we have a nation as it is."

In Cleveland's nonpartisan primary, Perk, 63, a Republican who succeeded the city's only black mayor, Carl Stokes, in 1971, was defeated by two young Democrats who roughly split the city's white and black vote.

The top finishers who will face each other in the Nov. 8 general election are Edward Feighan, a 29-year-old state representative, and Dennis Kucinich, a 30-year-old Municipal Court clerk.

An unofficial final count showed Kucinich with 40,134 votes, to Feighan's 39,008 and Perk's 38,280.

Atlanta's Jackson spent an estimated $200,000, 10 times more than any of six opponents, although his campaign never showed signs of weakness.

Emma Darnell, the mayoral candidate who hit that issue hardest, came in a poor fourth in the balloting behind businessman Harold Dye and Fulton County Commissioner Milton Farris.

With 98 per cent of the precincts reported, Jackson had 52,838 votes, Dye 14,842, Farris 11,736 and Miss Darnell 3,460.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, a review of voting machines from last Saturday's mayoral primary determined that City Councilman Joseph V. DiRosa defeated state Sen. Nat Kiefer by a mere 265 votes for a place in the Nov. 12 runoff with state Appeals Court Judge Ernest N. "Dutch" Morial.

Morial is the first black to emerge as a serious candidate for mayor in New Orleans' history.

'Maximum John' Sirica Becomes 'Minimum John'

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge John J. Sirica, once known as "Maximum John," ended his Watergate tenure with a compassionate act, making it possible for the Big Three of the cover-up to leave prison after serving only one year.

"I guess you can now call me Minimum John," Sirica quipped Tuesday after he reduced the 2½-8 year sentences of John N. Mitchell, John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman to 1-4 years. "I'm glad it's the last major decision I'll have rendered in this case."

For Sirica, the ruling was the last of many in the five years since his involvement began in Watergate and its many tangled offshoots. He was known as "Maximum John" by courthouse habitués because of his tough sentences.

No more Watergate criminal cases are pending and the 73-year-old judge is considering taking senior status with a reduced workload.

Sirica announced his decision after listening to impassioned pleas by the three men and their attorneys. Ironically, in a courtroom where so much of the drama has concerned tape recordings, the voices of Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman were on tape.

The judge had sent a probation officer to question the men inside prison and the playing of the tape was a dramatic surprise.

Ehrlichman becomes eligible for parole on Oct. 28 if federal judge Gerhard A. Gesell, who sentenced him in the Ellsberg psychiatrist's break-in case, reduces that sentence also, as is expected.

If not, Ehrlichman's parole eligibility begins next June, along with that of Haldeman and Mitchell.

Their release from prison will not be automatic. When their eligibility date nears, each man will be interviewed by parole officers whose recommendation must then be approved by the U.S. Parole Commission.

Without Sirica's action — or intervention by President Carter, which had not been requested — Ehrlichman would not have been eligible for parole until April 1979 and Haldeman and Mitchell not until December 1979.

Watervliet Council Seeks Young Blood

WATERLIET — The Watervliet City Commission Tuesday night issued a public appeal for candidates to file for city offices in the Nov. 8 election.

Mayor Arvid Frazier told the commission that only one petition has been filed for 10 available elective city positions to be decided in the Nov. 8 election.

Commissioner William Loshbough said "It's time we got young blood in the commission." He said anyone interested in seeking office should contact the city hall. The last day to file is Monday at 5 p.m.

The commission seats of Loshbough, Richard Fox and Albert Steffens are expiring as well as the seats of Clerk Fred Johnson, Treasurer William Rogers and Assessor Thomas Yore. Also expiring are two constable positions and two positions on the board of review.

In other areas, the commission turned over to the water committee a report from its engineering consultants on the city's water tower.

Maurice Rushlow of Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph, told the board that he estimates repairs to the water tower would cost about $25,000. He said the tank interior is in reasonably good condition, but that the outside is rusting. The tower is located at M-140 and Red Arrow Highway.

Police Chief Bartley Rose reported that nine volunteers are currently patrolling the city using CB radios to assist police. The program began Sept. 12 and is going well, Rose said. The volunteers are strictly observers, Rose said.

The commission accepted the resignation of Walter Duda as city building inspector. He said he had a conflict in working hours. Duda was appointed to the position last March. The commission took no action on a replacement.

Mayor Frazier announced that an open house honoring Commissioner Loshbough and a former city hall secretary, Helen Leverton, would be held Oct. 22. The open house is to be in the city garage from noon to 3 p.m. After the open house, city officials will dedicate the Butternut street bridge as the Garth Beam Bridge. Beam is retired city public works superintendent.

The commission voted to allow a lot split of lot 14, Riverside drive, at the request of owner Leroy Melvin.

The commission's November meeting was rescheduled from Nov. 8 to Nov. 9 because the regular meeting falls on election day.

This Bus Will Have No Sex

DETROIT (AP) — You remember the airline whose ads had stewardesses proclaiming "I'm so-and-so. Fly me."

Now come ads for the bus line, sloganizing, "Take me. I'm yours." Ads for buses of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, which serves Detroit suburbs, will carry the slogan under a cartoon of a bus, according to a SEMTA board action Tuesday. Presented a sample depicting the bus as a female with half-closed eyes and long lashes, board members denounced the idea as "sexist." Thus the face will have no gender. "If we give it male features, we'll have Anita Bryant up here," said board member James Granahan.

VAN BUREN RED CROSS

Chapter Wraps Up Busy Year

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau
LAWTON — It's been a busy year for the Van Buren County chapter of the American Red Cross.

According to figures released at Tuesday night's 60th annual meeting of the chapter held at White Oaks Manor here, 44 volunteers at Lake View Community Hospital of Paw Paw and in the bloodmobile program worked a total of 3,535 hours.

Volunteers also collected 1,834 pints of blood, issued 127 first aid certificates, 13 certificates for a home nursing program, and another 541 water safety instruction certificates. In addition, the county Red Cross also handled 205 cases involving families of local servicemen.

Jack DeMorrow of Hartford, outgoing chapter chairman, praised the efforts of the volunteers, singling out Mrs. Evelyn Falan of Paw Paw. He noted that she kept all essential chapter services running following the death in August of Mrs. Vivian LeRoy, the organization's executive director.

Last night's main speaker was Kathleen Henderson, director of services to military families for the Kalamazoo County chapter of the Red Cross. She noted that volunteers tend to think they will never use their training in handling disasters, until an emergency such as the tornado which swept through Augusta last April 2 strikes.

She noted that immediately following the tornado, the Red Cross was able to provide help with food, clothing, and shelter and other services.

Elected as chapter officers were the Rev. LeRoy Hoover, Paw Paw, chairman; Dr. Edward LeRoy, Paw Paw, vice chairman; Mrs. Falan, Paw Paw, secretary; and Robert Wagner, Lawton, treasurer.

About 55 persons attended the meeting, which included a dinner. Entertainment was provided by vocalists Lester Roberts and Alan Dyer of Kalamazoo, and Janice Wilson of Decatur.

Boy Friend Dead After Setting Himself On Fire

DETROIT (AP) — A man who reportedly set himself afire after an argument with his girl friend is dead.

Peter Reberry, 24, of suburban Grose Pointe Woods, died at Detroit General Hospital on Tuesday night without regaining consciousness. He had suffered burns over almost all of his body Monday night.

His 19-year-old girl friend, whose name has not been released, told police they quarreled while sitting in his car. She said she got out and he poured gasoline on himself and set himself on fire.

Raymond N. Day and his son Robert pulled Reberry from his car, which had stopped in front of Day's home in St. Clair Shores, and wrapped him in blankets to extinguish the flames.

Autopsy Says Strangulation

POWERS, Mich. (AP) — An autopsy concluded that a 21-year-old waitress whose body was found in a field in the Upper Peninsula died from strangulation. The Menominee sheriff's office Tuesday disclosed results of the autopsy on Laura Allinger of Spalding, who was last seen alive early Thursday at a Powers tavern where she worked. Searchers spotted her body from a helicopter in what Sheriff Dean Burns said was a "one-in-a-million stroke of luck." A $2,000 reward for information in the case has been raised by residents of Powers who pooled their resources.

LAWTON — Young witches and hobgoblins here have to be off the streets by 8:30 p.m. Halloween night. The Lawton Village Council set the deadline time for trick or treating on Oct. 31, at its regular meeting Tuesday night. In other areas, the council approved the purchase of a dump truck box for $2,397 from Nell's Automotive Supply, Kalamazoo, and designated a lane on the west side of Oak Grove Cemetery as Cemetery Alley. Keith Weiburn also reported that removal of some 25 dead trees in the village will begin next Monday or Tuesday. ## Proposed Rule Would Limit College Trustees' Spending LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill that would impose limits on the expenses of state college and university trustees has been introduced in the House.

The bill would limit compensation to $1,200 a year for expenses incurred by a trustee.

"This bill would eliminate the kind of monthly expenses run up earlier this year by MSU trustee Michael Smydra," said the sponsor, Rep. Dan Angel, R-Battle Creek.

Through July of this year, Smydra has billed Michigan State more than $6,000 for expenses, MSU officials said.

There is now no regulation limiting a trustee's spending.

After Smydra's spending was aired, the MSU Board of Trustees passed a resolution calling for members to provide lists of their monthly expenses.

Smydra is living in South Bend, Ind., while attending law school at Notre Dame. He says he has maintained a Michigan residence to permit him to continue as a trustee.

OSCO DRUG

generic drugs and how they benefit you

what is a generic drug?
All drugs have two names. The first is a very long chemical name, which gives the exact chemical makeup of the drug. Because of this lengthy, complex chemical name, a second name is given — this is the generic name. A third name is given when a manufacturer produces a drug and obtains a patent on it. Therefore, a generic name is the chemical classification for a drug other than its complex chemical and trade-marked name. However, not all prescription drugs are available as generic drugs due to exclusive patent laws.

are generic drugs as effective as the trade-mark drug?
Yes. Osco has selected only those generic drugs which meet the standards set forth by the Federal Drug Administration. These requirements include the qualitative and quantitative chemical analysis of a drug; how the drug dissolves when it is taken; how much of the drug is absorbed into the blood stream. This testing insures the effectiveness of the drug.

how generic drugs can mean savings to you...
The generic drugs Osco carries are those manufactured by reputable pharmaceutical laboratories.
Parke-Davis, Squibb, Lilly, Pfizer, Roche, Smith Kline French, Abbott Labs, and more.

Osco has selected these companies because of their long-standing reputation to insure the continuous quality of a drug through research and laboratory testing. Since Osco has made contract agreements with these companies for the generic drugs all our stores will maintain, our cost is lowered. This enables us to pass the added savings on to you in your prescription prices.

ask your doctor about generic drugs
When your doctor writes your next prescription, ask him about generic drugs. If he can write your prescription for a generic drug rather than a trade-marked drug it will save you money.

Seminary Prison Funding Near Last Senate Hurdle

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The spending of nearly $7.3 million to turn a western Michigan seminary into a prison has neared final legislative approval.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted 7-2 Tuesday to spend the money and sent the bill to the full Senate. The measure has already cleared the House.

Meanwhile, the state administrative board, a high-level panel of state officials, also approved the purchase.

The appropriations measure allocates $4.2 million to purchase the St. Augustine Seminary near Saugatuck in Allegan County, and another $2.9 million to convert it to a medium-security prison for up to 800 inmates. The Department of Natural Resources gets $175,000 to develop a park on the 550-acre seminary property.

The legislation follows the state's out-of-court settlement with opponents of the prison. The settlement gives Allegan County or a third party the option of purchasing the prison four years after inmates begin living there. The state would have six months to move out.

A year after the state moves in — expected about six months from now — the county could purchase 350 acres of park land near the prison building for $735,000. And even if the county does buy the entire site, it must remain a park under the agreement.

The agreement was reached after opponents of the prison filed suit in Allegan County Circuit Court. But Gerald Miller, director of the Department of Management and Budget, told the appropriations committee he doesn't believe anyone will choose to buy the property from the state.

Under the agreement, he said, the property must be purchased at the price the state paid for it. Miller defended the agreement against criticism from several senators who expressed irritation at what one called "rubber stamping" the settlement.

"This is a good buy for the taxpayers of the state," Miller told the committee. "I think we've negotiated a good deal." And he said if the agreement is not accepted by the legislature, "we're not going to get that facility."

The site is one of several being considered by the state to ease overcrowding in the state prison system. Part of Kincheloe Air Force Base already has been converted, and the state is looking at a Detroit warehouse, the old Detroit House of Corrections, and the Wayne County Child Development Center near Northville.

Keeler Twp. Chips In $8,800

KEELER — The Keeler Township Board Tuesday night voted to pay the Van Buren County Road Commission $8,800 to help pay for maintenance costs on township roads through Jan. 1.

The road commission requested the payment because of heavy expenses incurred last winter in snow removal. According to a letter from the road commission, $29,000 was spent in Keeler Township last winter for snow removal.

The board voted to divide the payment into monthly installments.

In other action, the board voted to divide its share of this fiscal year's penal fines with the Decatur, Hartford and Dowagiac libraries.

The vote reverses action taken in April when the board voted to switch funding from the Decatur library to the Hartford and Dowagiac libraries, saying that the student population in the township was divided two-thirds into the Dowagiac system and one-third in the Hartford system.

Supervisor John Gillespie said this morning that the switch back to at least partial funding to the Decatur library was made because the Decatur library is the "county library." Many adults shop in Decatur and take advantage of the extra services offered by the library in Decatur, he said.

Gillespie said the funds, about $6,000, would be divided about $2,000 each for the three libraries.

A committee appointed by the board last month in response to complaints about law enforcement in the Sister Lakes area is slated to meet this month to come up with a plan for increased police protection.

Carl Davis, board treasurer and member of the committee, reported nothing new resulted from a meeting with Van Buren Sheriff Richard Stump last month. Gillespie said the committee was informed by the sheriff that out of 13 deputies pulled, four said they would continue extra duty patrols of the township four nights a week, up until midnight.

The township pays for the extra patrols, the supervisor said. He added the committee had asked if patrols of the area could be made after midnight and hopes to pursue the idea in the upcoming meeting.

In response to a complaint about the cost of building inspections, Gillespie said the board has no control over fees. Resident William Hall said he had been charged $55 for an inspection of a one-room addition he is building. Gillespie said

Key Indicators Dispel Notion Of Sick Economy

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Just when a lot of people were getting accustomed to the notion that the nation's economy was sinking into a quagmire, a few reports were issued that tend to rattle the notion.

Machine tool orders, or orders for equipment that will be used in making other goods, spurred in August after declining in June.

The level of orders at the nation's factories rose in August for the first time since May.

The index of Leading Economic Indicators also rose in the same months after having declined for two months earlier this year — and three straight until the July figures were revised from a minus to a plus. What all these indicators share in common is the future: they are all indicators of further economic activity. They represent commitments to that activity.

There is additional evidence of some underlying strength in some of the other individual indicators. Capital spending plans are moving up. So are building permits. Again, these are signs of activity to come.

It doesn't take much to change the kaleidoscopic pattern of the economy, just a one-month shakeup of the indicators. The change can develop with remarkable speed.

The stock market, for instance, is one of those leading economic indicators. When other components of the leading index show strength the stock market is inclined to rise as a consequence. And in rising, it contributes further to a rise in the index, of which it is a component.

A one-month rise after three months of weakness might not be enough to dispel the fog and drizzle that has been dampening Wall Street's outlook, but it should quiet for the time being some of the fog horns of disaster.

For months, their gloomy voices have been telling a tale of woe to come, of an interquarantine economy mired in recession, of inflation raging throughout the world, of problems beyond our ability to deal with.

In this context, every percentage point rise in joblessness or inflation is interpreted as verification. And so is very labor-management hassle, congressional argument, federal Reserve action and presidential decision.

To deny there are serious problems is to close the eyes to reality.

To name a few: teen-age unemployment, the plight of the debt-ridden poorer nations, the difficulty of maintaining free trade when jobs are lost to unfair competition, overregulation, underutilization capacity.

The stock market, which is supposed to represent the investment community's attitude toward the future, is a special case of its own, depressed for reasons that many experts are at a loss to explain.

There are serious social and economic problems that seldom catch the headlines. The difficulties involved in starting a small business, for example. The lack of training programs to facilitate the employment of youngsters.

But to gather all the problems into a patchwork quilt and then try to spread it over the entire economy is just as unrealistic.

These recent expressions of confidence in the economic future, for example, cannot be covered by the blanket. They protrude.

New orders at the nation's factories, a healthy level of building permits, orders for new machine tools, and financial commitments to new plants and equipment are the reality — or else the money so committed doesn't mean thine.

Berrien Action Awarded Youth Employment Grant

Berrien County Action has received a $38,795 grant from the State Department of Labor to finance a program aimed at placing 40 disadvantaged youths in private employment, according to Lee Auble, Action director.

One-third of the youths must be on probation to a court and two-thirds should be from families on welfare, Auble said.

All must be between 15 and 23 years of age.

The grant will pay wages for the youths during the first three weeks of their employment while they are being trained and getting adjusted to working conditions, Auble said.

At the end of those three weeks, an assessment is made by the employer, and if he is satisfied, the youth is placed on the payroll, Auble said. Under certain circumstances, a portion of the youth's wages may be paid for an additional three weeks.

Action job counselors will closely supervise the youths during the first six weeks they are on the job, Auble said. Four job counselors will each supervise 15 youths. The placement program will run from now through Nov. 30.

State Farm Bureau Chief Calls PBB Film 'Biased'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tuesday night's broadcast of a British documentary film about PBB in Michigan brought a charge that the film has caused skepticism about the state's bean and cherry crops.

The head of the Michigan Farm Bureau, a party to the accidental PBB contamination of thousands of farm animals, called the film a "biased, sensationalized, so-called 'documentary'."

Ellen R. Smith joined state officials, including Gov. William Milliken, on televised interviews after the broadcast to repeat their criticisms of the film.

The hour-long show, "The Poisoning of Michigan," was aired on the state's six public television stations.

Smith said that after the program was shown in Britain, state officials received calls from produce buyers asking if Michigan-grown beans and cherries were also contaminated by the toxic fire retardant, PBB.

PBB (polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic chemical) was mixed with livestock feed in 1973 and sickened thousands of farm animals and possibly some humans. It did not affect beans, cherries or other produce.

"If Michigan consumers and those from other states have this same reaction after viewing the film — not only Michigan agriculture, but our entire economy will be adversely affected," Smith said.

The film, bought by a public television station in Virginia, accuses state agencies, Milliken, the Farm Bureau and others of allowing PBB to spread nearly unchecked for almost three years.

The governor, agency and cooperative officials have denied the accusations and criticized the film as inaccurate.

The state Democratic Party, meanwhile, mounted a $2,500 advertising campaign in 15 newspapers in Michigan urging viewing of the program.

The ad, designed by a Detroit advertising agency, showed several cows and read: "The film they tried to suppress! The dramatic and tragic story of the PBB disaster."

Shirley Gray, party public information director, said Democrats set aside the money for the advertising after viewing the film at a September meeting.

Democrats have vowed to use the PBB issue against Republican Milliken if he runs for reelection or for a U.S. Senate seat next year.

Also on Tuesday, the Department of Public Health issued a status report that said all state residents may have experienced some suppression of immune response to infectious disease as a result of PBB ingestion.

The report also concluded that human exposure to foods containing high amounts of PBB had passed "although some sporadic sources" of low levels of the chemical might remain in beef.

Michigan Eyes Sites For Burials

By CYNTHIA KYLE, Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials are scrambling to find burial sites for thousands of PBB-contaminated animals expected to be slaughtered under a state law that took effect Monday.

Jack Bails, head of the Department of Natural Resources' program review, said Tuesday that 15 to 20 possible burial sites are being considered.

However, he said officials have not yet ruled out a plan to dump the slaughtered animals at a proposed site near Mio in Oscoda County, despite a court order blocking the action.

Bails also said it was unlikely that huge incinerators, designed to burn large numbers of carcasses, could be built and in operation in time to dispose of 30 to 100 head of cattle expected to be ready for slaughter by late next week.

"Incineration, where possible, doesn't appear to be a viable option," Bails said. "It's possible. The problem has always been one of time — if we have a place to put it. And we don't suspect anybody's going to be any happier with an incinerator than with a landfill."

State House Panel Approves Bill To Curb Employer Eavesdropping

By ROB WILSON, Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state House will now decide whether his boss has to beep before he listens in on your phone conversations.

A bill restricting eavesdropping by employers cleared the House Civil Rights Committee on Tuesday.

The bill also provides for felony jail terms of two years and a $20,000 fine for the sale or possession of eavesdropping devices.

"The practice of monitoring phone conversations is an inherent one," said Rep. Mark Goddard, D-Flint, the bill's sponsor. "Monitoring is not necessary and not justified. The possibilities are frightening."

Spokesmen for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Michigan Press Association disagreed, saying the practice is necessary in certain cases. Law enforcement officers are exempted from the bill.

The spokesmen said eavesdropping is needed mainly to monitor new employees to assure that customers are being dealt with fairly and courteously over the phone.

"Our organization objects to the proposal under consideration which penalizes an employer who monitors telephone conversations of employees made on company-owned equipment," said Warren Hoyt of the Michigan Press Association in a prepared statement.

"In the newspaper business, telephone monitoring is principally used in the classified ad departments where calls are strictly business-oriented and any monitoring is strictly for the consumer's benefit and protection."

Charles Durr of Michigan Bell said the bill "is totally unworkable and would put us out of business."

Under the bill, eavesdropping would be allowed if it were preceded by a "beep" signal to let the person know he is being listened to.

"This would create an artificial feeling that is disruptive," Durr said.

Edward Krunk, an attorney representing The Detroit News, said, "There is a definite need for supervisory monitoring in the areas of training and quality assurance in businesses such as The News. There is no substitute for such monitoring as it is now practiced — the use of a 'beep' will render monitoring useless."

Republican Rep. William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, a member of the committee, said he also is opposed to the bill.

"I think the bill is not necessary. I don't see any perceived danger let alone any proven danger. There just isn't any need for it at this point."

CAMPBELL HEIDEN DIES PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charlotte Dorrance Wright, an heiress to the Campbell Soup Co. fortune, died Tuesday at her 300-acre estate in nearby St. Davids. She was 85.

Allegan Divorces Granted

ALLEGAN — The following marriages have been dissolved by divorce decrees handed down in Allegan County Circuit Court, according to Russell Sill, county clerk.

McKenzie, Alma of Allegan and Gilberta. The court awarded custody of one child to the mother and two children to the father.

Wells, Jennie of Allegan and Elmer.

Middleton, Sandra of Dorr and Franklin.

Meadie, Janet of Allegan and Harry. Two children to mother.

Speedy Reading Praised

WEST LaFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Doubling your reading speed can increase your comprehension by about eight per cent, says a Purdue University professor of developmental reading.

"Increased reading speed sharpens your mind generally," notes Professor Merrill May. "You often become mentally more efficient."

The best readers, says May, tend to be those with a broad vocabulary, familiarity with sentence patterns and a variety of life experiences.

"They can quickly learn to read 1,000 or 2,000 words per minute with excellent comprehension."

The 10,000-words-a-minute speed reader "is about as rare as Mozart," he says.

Most people read about 200 words per minute and, according to May, college students should be able to read about 600 if they want to get their lessons done.

GALLUP Youth Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — If you are a teenager and receive a regular allowance, consider yourself lucky.

Only 37 per cent of teen-agers nationwide receive an allowance, with the proportion decreasing to 26 per cent among the later (16-18 year old) teens.

Among those receiving an allowance, $5 per week is the median average amount received. About one-fourth receive $10 or more per week, while one lucky teenager in eight gets $15 or more weekly.

As determined by a recent Gallup Youth Survey, about half (50 per cent) of younger teens (13-15 years old) get a regular allowance compared with about one in four (26 per cent) among older teenagers. Little difference in allowance is found between boys and girls.

While four in 10 teenagers get a regular allowance, this is, in most cases, not a hand-out or "freebie."

The overwhelming majority of teen-agers who get an allowance (85 per cent) say they are expected to work around the house to earn their money. Six in 10 boys who receive an allowance and are expected to work for it say they do yard work — mowing lawns, raking leaves, etc. The next most often mentioned chore (by 30 per cent) is taking out the garbage. One-fourth of teenage boys do "general housework" and one-fourth "help with the dishes."

Girls are expected to do a host of chores, with general housework, helping with dishes, cleaning their rooms, and vacuuming leading the list.

Following are the questions and findings:

"Do you get a regular allowance from your parents, or not?"

Girls.....	86%	14%

Suspect Faces Threat Charge

A woman free on bond on a charge of arson was arrested again yesterday on a charge of threatening a witness in the arson case, according to Benton Harbor police.

PATRICIA A. BOLTON

Det. Tom Schadler said Patricia Ann Bolton, 23, was arrested on a two-count warrant alleging obstruction of justice and extortion.

Patricia Bolton had been free on $10,000 bond on a charge of setting a house fire at 870 Superior St. Sept. 28.

A warrant issued Tuesday accuses her of threatening Brenda Pettis, 18, of 885 Superior St., in an attempt to keep Brenda Pettis from testifying in the arson case, Schadler said.

The fire at 870 Superior was in a house occupied by Gladys Thomas, Benton Harbor firemen estimated damage at $3,000.

Patricia Bolton had demanded examination on the arson charge and was awaiting hearing when arrested yesterday. Her address is listed by police as 1817 Council Drive, Benton Township.

Car Runs Over Migrant Child

The 11-month old daughter of a farm labor couple was killed Tuesday afternoon when she was run over by a car in a Bainbridge township orchard, Berrien sheriff's officers reported.

Dead on arrival at Watervliet Community Hospital was Misty Renee Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Morris, workers at Greg Orchards, North Branch Road, where the accident occurred.

Deputy Abbott Taylor said Misty was run over by a car being driven in reverse by Patricia Ann Eich, 18, also a worker at Greg Orchards.

Taylor said Misty was on a blanket while her parents were picking apples, and Mrs. Eich apparently didn't see Misty. Mrs. Eich drove in reverse to avoid her own baby who was on a blanket in front of the car, Taylor said. Misty's mother told Taylor she placed Misty on the blanket shortly before the accident.

Misty died of a massive skull fracture, according to Taylor's report. He said the accident remains under investigation. The death is not counted as a traffic fatality because it occurred on private property.

Mrs. Eich's husband, James, is a brother of Misty's mother, Cindy, Taylor said.

The Morris and Eich families are from Bradford, Ark., and are staying at the Greg farm during the apple harvest.

Funeral arrangements for Misty were incomplete this morning at Hutchins Funeral Home, Watervliet.

Clothes Ignite; Patient Burned

DOWAGIAC — A nursing home patient was burned critically here Tuesday while apparently trying to smoke in his room.

Palmer Richard, 55, was reported in critical condition today at the burn unit of Bronson Hospital, Kalamazoo. A hospital spokesman said he suffered second and third degree burns over 40 per cent of his body, mostly in the stomach, chest and neck areas.

Both Fire Chief Joseph Cuffman and Ronald Westman, nursing home administrator, credited a nurse's aide with quick action in putting out the fire. Westman said Aldina Morgado, Dowagiac, used a bedspread to wrap Richard up and snuff out the fire.

According to Dowagiac firemen, Richard was apparently trying to light a cigarette as he sat in a chair in his room at the Schato Nursing Home about 6:45 p.m. Firemen said it appeared he dropped the match which ignited his clothing. No cigarettes were found at the chair, however.

The fire was confined to Richard's clothing, and damaged neither the room nor the chair.

Westman said Miss Morgado did "a remarkable job... she just acted beautifully."

Westman said that state law and nursing home rules prohibit patients from smoking in the rooms. He said Richard had been warned previously about smoking. Westman said earlier Tuesday, hospital personnel had confiscated cigarettes from Richard's room.

Dowagiac police said the incident is under investigation.

Michigan Woman Sentenced

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Utica, Mich., woman has been sentenced to up to 40 years in prison for her part in the taking of 11 hostages last February at a home for unwed mothers. Rita Gibran had earlier pleaded guilty to two counts of kidnapping and one count of felonious assault. Nine kidnapping charges against her were dropped. Cincinnati, Ohio Common Pleas Judge Thomas Nurre gave the 37-year-old woman concurrent sentences of 4 to 13 and 4 to 25 years on the kidnapping charges and 1 to 5 years on the felonious assault charge. Nurre said at Tuesday's sentencing that he had taken into consideration 15 letters bearing 109 signatures from friends who asked that the judge be lenient in imposing his sentence.

"Minimal standards should be set higher than is necessary" to assure that those in the pool of potential students are able to handle the work, the report said.

Dr. Clark Kerr, council chairman and former president of the University of California, added: "No one would be admitted who would lower the standards of the medical profession or the legal profession of whatever."

Elliot said the woman told him a boy placed a burning cigarette down her son's shirt collar in the backyard of her home.

Benton Harbor, police also reported another 14-year-old boy was petitioned to juvenile court and lodged in the county juvenile home in connection with a break-in Tuesday at the Erma Robinson residence, 740 McGaugan Ave.

COURT ORDERS MAN'S RELEASE

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A man sought by Arizona authorities for auto theft has been ordered released by the Michigan Supreme Court on grounds that Arizona authorities didn't satisfy extradition requirements. The court said police in Maricopa County, Ariz., failed to show probable cause for charging Harold W. Doran with stealing a pickup truck from Arizona in which he was arrested in Bay City, Mich., in 1975. Doran was arrested on Michigan charges of receiving and concealing stolen property — the truck — but those charges were dropped and Arizona authorities sought Doran's extradition. The court said the extradition request said only that Arizona authorities have investigated Doran for theft, and that didn't satisfy the need to show probable cause.

Today In MICHIGAN

'Enough Of This Bull'

DETROIT (AP) — A deputy police chief in street clothes sat down next to a killing suspect in a restaurant, ordered coffee and toast, listened to the man boast of the killings and then arrested him. "I figured, 'enough of this bull,' and I threw my badge on the table," recalled Deputy Chief Joe Arcese. "I told him, 'I'm a police officer.'" The low-key capture ended a spree early Tuesday that saw three people shot, one fatally and another critically. Arrested was Larry Creslaw, 21, of Detroit. Dead is Ronald Cooper, 19, whom Creslaw allegedly shot in the head during an argument.

3,400 Idle At McLouth

DETROIT (AP) — A strike of some 3,400 workers at McLouth Steel Corp. entered its fourth day today, with no bargaining scheduled in the contract dispute. Most of the workers, members of the United Steelworkers Union Local 2868, are production and maintenance workers. Another 200 who belong to Local 2869 are office and technical workers. Both sides have said they are willing to resume talks over a new contract to replace the three-year pact that expired Friday. No negotiations have been held since then. Major issues are noneconomic and include the use of supervisory personnel and possible elimination of jobs, according to union officials.

'Gobbledygook' Is Gone

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Beginning Friday, even a kid will be able to understand the loan agreements at Michigan National Bank. That was the proud claim by bank officials, who said it took four lawyers three months to cut out the gobbledygook from Michigan National's consumer loan documents. Robert Hart, a senior loan officer in the bank's commercial loan department who helped write the new document, said the wordage has been cut by half. Hart said his bank is one of only a few financial institutions to try the plainer and simpler paperwork. "We're going to market it," he said. "We're going to tell our customers to compare ours to all others and at least you can read what ours says." "We deleted one whole page of fine print and over half of the new agreement is disclosures required in federal lending laws. It wasn't that people didn't understand the old one; it's just that it was so long and complex that most people didn't want to read it."

Court Orders Man's Release

LANSING, Mich. The court said police in Maricopa County, Ariz., failed to show probable cause for charging Harold W. The court said the extradition request said only that Arizona authorities have investigated Doran for theft, and that didn't satisfy the need to show probable cause.

SOUGHT IN KIDNAP: FBI obtained federal warrants Tuesday charging these two Grosse Pointe, Mich., area youths, Allen Eugene Beno, 18, left, and Steven Paul Brisson, 17, with abducting a teen-age driver and forcing him to drive them from suburban Detroit to Cincinnati, Ohio. Beno and Brisson are being sought. (AP Wirephoto)

Kidnap Suspects Headed South

DETROIT (AP) — An FBI search for two Michigan teenagers accused of kidnapping another youth could extend as far south as Florida, agents say.

The FBI obtained federal warrants Tuesday charging Allen Eugene Beno, 18, of Grosse Pointe Shores and Steven Paul Brisson, 17, of Grosse Pointe Woods with abducting a 17-year-old Harper Woods youth Friday night and forcing him to drive them from suburban Detroit to Cincinnati, Ohio.

The FBI said Tuesday that Beno and Brisson were believed hitchhiking south, possibly to Florida.

Agents said the victim, Jeffrey Gerald Niedermair, was on his way home from work when he stopped for a traffic light. The youth said two youths the FBI believes were Beno and Brisson got into the car and forced him to drive south on Interstate 75, according to FBI special agent in charge Robert E. Keel.

The kidnapping was witnessed by one of Niedermair's friends who was following him in another car, local police reported.

After the alleged abductors entered the car, they stopped at a gas station. The friend walked up to the car to ask what was happening, and was told to "get the hell out," said Harper Woods Police Chief Nickolaus Mayer.

The friend then called police, who began their search for Niedermair's car.

Six hours later, the victim was ordered to pull over near Cincinnati, and the kidnappers fled.

Agents said they might have been able to apprehend the abductors immediately if the victim had gone directly to local police. Instead, they said, he called his parents in Harper Woods, and then pulled over to the side of the road and slept for a while before driving home.

He didn't call police until he got home Saturday morning, Mayer said.

Rezoning Bid Denial Asked

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo City Planning Commission Tuesday night recommended denying a bid to rezone a parcel of land from single family residential to two-family residential.

The action came during a public hearing on the request of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rurven, Chattanooga, Tenn., to rezone the land at the southeast corner of Clay and Johnson streets.

None of 11 residents who attended the hearing spoke in favor of granting the rezoning change. They cited problems with increased traffic and people living in single family residences wanting the area to remain that way.

John Holm, 503 E. Detroit St., told the commission, "Buying a home is not a short-term investment. When people purchase homes in an area zoned single family residential they expect to live in just such an area."

Mrs. Martin Sandstrom, 219 S. Norton St., also asked the commission, "Why change it to accommodate some out-of-towners?"

Charles Ramsey of Carl Krieger Real Estate represented the Bowers at the hearing. He said the couple planned to build two, two-story duplexes on the site at a cost of about $50,000 each.

Ramsey described New Buffalo as a "bedroom community" and said that tax dollars result "per bedroom."

The commission indicated it was recommending rejection of the bid in part because of the small lot size (two 132 by 132 foot lots), and a lack of plans and specifications on the project.

That recommendation will now go to the city council for a final determination.

DOWAGIAC — Cass County sheriff's deputies said they chased down a pickup truck Tuesday night about an hour after it was reported stolen from a Dowagiac bowling alley.

Deputies said two juvenile boys and a young man were taken into custody and later booked for investigation of charges of possession of a stolen auto. The young man was identified as David Falk, 16, route 4, Dowagiac. The boys are 15 and 16 and of Dowagiac.

Deputies said a pickup similar to the one reported stolen was spotted on Silver Street near the Cass-Berrien county line. A chase at speeds up to 100 mph ensued, deputies said. Deputies reported they chased the vehicle nearly eight miles before stopping it on M-157 near Garret Road in Silver Creek Township.

The 1977 Chevrolet pickup was reported stolen about 10:30 p.m. from Patrick Kropel, Dowagiac. He said the vehicle was parked in the lot at the Silver Creek Club bowling alley.

Deputies said both juveniles were held at the jail overnight pending petitioning to juvenile court on the charge of possession of a stolen auto. Cass county has no juvenile detention facility.

HARTFORD — A Lawrence woman was arrested by state police at Paw Paw after officers reported receiving a false report about a shooting.

Booked at the Van Buren County jail in Paw Paw was Ramona Faye Ghost, 22, route 2, Lawrence. Troopers from Paw Paw said. The officers said she was booked on charges of making a false report to police, and drunk and disorderly.

Police said she was also being held on a lunch warrant issued by Seventh District Court, Paw Paw, charging her with failure to comply with a sentence stemming from an earlier conviction on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Police said the arrest came after the state police post at South Haven received a call from a woman who said a man fired a shotgun at her as she stood in a phone booth in Hartford.

Police said during subsequent questioning by troopers from Paw Paw it was determined no shot had been fired.

Probate Revisions Clear House Panel

designed to cut much of the legal red tape involved in settling an estate, the revision also gives judges limited powers to intervene if they suspect fraud or waste in the course of estate proceedings.

The independent system also provides that many estates can be settled in one day. Under present law, only estates valued at less than $7,500 can be settled in one day. The new bill would increase that limit to $20,000 in most cases.

In addition, the proposal gives surviving spouses the first $80,000 plus one-half of the remainder of the estate if there is no will. Presently the spouse receives one-third to a maximum one-half of the estate.

If there is no will, the reform package would give priority to the spouse. She would be allowed to proceed with estate proceedings immediately.

'Halfway House' Inmate Admits Break-In

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The convict who prompted Berrien District Judge John T. Hammond to blast a state program which places prison inmates in halfway houses pleaded guilty yesterday in Berrien Circuit Court to a breaking and entering charge.

Pleading guilty before Judge Julian E. Hughes was Kirk Anthony Ward, 20, of Benton Harbor. He pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a vehicle at Price's Sunoco station in Benton Harbor to steal a tape player July 4.

He now faces a sentence of up to five years in prison. On Sept. 29, 1976, Ward was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in prison from Berrien Circuit Court for entering a business without breaking.

Ward was later released from prison and placed in the Michigan Department of Corrections halfway house program, which allows prison inmates believed to be non-violent to complete their minimum sentence while living under supervision in hotels such as the Milner in Benton Harbor and Four Flages in Niles. Ward was staying at the Milner when he committed the car burglary.

Hammond charged that the policy of the Corrections Department circumvented existing state law which specifies the minimum amount of time a convict must spend behind bars before parole. The judge claimed Ward had only been at the Milner about a week when he broke into the auto.

Hammond became involved in the case when Ward was arraigned before him on the charge. Moments after arraignment, Ward escaped the custody of a court officer, but was captured shortly after in St. Joseph.

Ward was sentenced to a year in jail by Hammond for that offense, technically a jail escape. William Kirne, defended the early release program of prison inmates, noting it saves money, alleviates prison overcrowding, and allows close supervision of the inmate.

Sentence Lowered In Lumberyard Fire

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A South Haven man was sentenced in Van Buren Circuit Court Tuesday to serve two years in prison for setting a fire in 1974 that caused an estimated $500,000 damage. Judge William C. Buhl imposed the sentence on David Bowden, 24, who had pleaded no contest to a charge of attempted preparation to burn real property, reduced from an original charge of arson.

Bowden and Duane Thompson, 28, also of South Haven, had been convicted by a circuit court jury in 1975 on arson charges stemming from a Nov.

20, 1974, fire at the Lappo Lumber Co. in South Haven Township.

Both were sentenced to five to 10-year prison terms.

The convictions were set aside by the state Court of Appeals on a technicality in June, 1976.

In a new non-jury trial last month, Thompson was convicted again of the original arson charge, and subsequently sentenced to a 4 1/2 to 10-year prison term.

With credit for 569 days already spent in custody, Bowden is expected to be immediately eligible for parole, according to a Department of Corrections spokesman.

Deadbeat Fathers Given Jail Terms

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Two fathers owing about $2,000 each in child support were sentenced to jail this week by Berrien Circuit Court judges, while three other men behind in their support avoided jail terms by making payments towards the arrearages.

Judge William S. White sentenced Willie Autry, of 231 E. Britain Ave., Benton Harbor, to 30 days in jail for $2,135 arrearage for three ADC children, and ordered him to find employment within 30 days of his release or spend another 60 days behind bars.

White also ordered Autry to sign a wage assignment of $21 weekly support and $5 per week on the arrearage. Pastrick said Autry made his last support payment in October, 1975.

Judge Chester J. Byrns sentenced Roger Mercette, of Camden, Mich., to 20 weekends in jail for $1,984 arrearage for one child on ADC, but said the jail sentence can be suspended if Mercette pays $475 towards the arrearage.

Byrns also ordered him to pay $10 weekly support and $10 weekly on the arrearage, and warned that if one payment is missed Mercette is to spend the next weekend in jail.

In other cases before White, Horatio Bolden, of 136 Lake St., Benton Harbor, avoided a 30-day jail term by paying off the entire arrearage of $192 for one ADC child. Edward Pastrick, investigator for the Friend of the Court's office, said the amount of weekly support payments still has to be determined.

William Gyori, of 2112 Miller Drive, Niles, avoided a 60-day jail sentence by paying $250 towards an arrearage of $2,538 for one child on ADC. White warned, however, that if Gyori misses one support payment, he will automatically be sentenced to the 60 days in jail.

Gary L. Cox, of Caledonia, Mich., was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $25 weekly support plus $2 per week on an arrearage of $334 for one child not on ADC.

Robert Hicks, of New Buffalo, avoided a 30-day jail term from Byrns by paying $125 towards an arrearage of $342 for one ADC child. The judge said that if one payment is missed, Hicks is to serve the next weekend in jail. He is also to sign a wage assignment for support based on his earnings when he finds work plus $5 weekly on the arrearage.

THREE RIVERS, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp. is converting the former Continental Can complex in St. Joseph County to an automobile transmission production facility. The company says 1,000 workers eventually will be employed there.

Sale of the former paper product manufacturing site was consummated last Friday, and early site preparation began this week, it was announced Tuesday. Production is expected to begin in April 1979.

GM officials have not disclosed the price they paid for the complex, but a tax relief request filed with the city put the total cost of buying, remodeling and equipping the plant and surrounding grounds at more than $100 million.

Although GM has not disclosed the type of transmission that will be built at the plant, speculation has focused on a small unit that would add front-wheel drive to some of the No. 1 automaker's full-sized cars. The Cadillac Eldorado and Oldsmobile Toronado are presently the only full-sized domestic models equipped with front-wheel drive.

The Continental Can complex has been empty since the paper products firm pulled out in 1975, putting some 1,000 persons out of work. The firm maintained a smaller facility in Three Rivers employing about 150 persons.

In addition to purchasing the Continental building from a steel union pension fund, GM also bought some 120 acres of vacant land adjoining the site for future expansion.

OWNER CHECKS DAMAGE: James Hipkind (center), owner of Hipkind Building Supplies, Inc., 6673 Red Arrow Highway, Coloma, leaves firm's showroom area after checking for damage caused by fire early this morning. Fire was confined to box and stack of wood outside structure. Smoke, however, spread throughout showroom. Leonard Dolezan, Coloma fire chief, said fire was started by flare thrown into box containing stakes and was "definitely arson." Fire was discovered by John Friese, Coloma township policeman, on routine patrol. Friese's alarm and action by firemen were credited with keeping flames from spreading to nearby lumber yard and further into building. State fire marshal was to investigate today. Watervliet firemen assisted in fighting fire. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Galien Township Accepts Treasurer's Resignation

GALIEN — The Galien Township Board Tuesday night accepted the resignation of Treasurer Dorothy Murdock.

Mrs. Murdock said she could not devote enough time to the position because of a full-time job and household obligations.

She was elected to the board in 1974 and is serving her second term. Her present term expires next year.

Supervisor Daniel Derbas said that anyone interested in filling the remainder of the term should contact him or Clerk Russell Babcock.

In other action, the board approved a resolution supporting a recent statement from the combined Galien and Weesaw townships fire departments. The statement was the result of a joint meeting of the two departments last month.

The statement directed to the Berrien Sheriff's Department, authorizes the sheriff's dispatcher to dispatch either township emergency service the caller requests or whichever is closer. The statement covers both the fire and ambulance departments of each township.

Supervisor Derbas noted at the meeting that there are two different telephone numbers for each township for emergency service. The Galien emergency number is 1-963-0414. The Weesaw emergency number is 1-963-6111. The calls go directly to the sheriff's office where emergency service is dispatched.

In a related area, Galien Fire Chief Robert Loznack announced that a meeting would be held Oct. 9 at the fire hall in an effort to increase volunteer membership in the fire department. He said the department is experiencing a manpower shortage and volunteers are needed. The meeting is slated for 9 a.m.

As a result of that shortage, Loznack said the department will soon end its sponsorship of weekly bingo games. The games will be turned over to the Galien American Legion post after the current $500 jackpot is won.

The board accepted the low bid from Mark, Inc., Lakeville, Ind., of $1,684 for body work and repainting of a township fire truck.

Loznack, who is also township building inspector announced that building permits were required for any building valued at more than $500. He said several projects had been started in the township without permits and felt residents should be aware that permits are required.

HARDWARE STORE DAMAGED: Car driven by Warren Wienke, Niles, rots against Willson Hardware, Ferry Street, Berrien Springs. Car struck back end of trailer, backed into opposite lane and struck a pickup. Car then careened into store front. Wienke was hospitalized and no one else was injured in crash. Berrien Springs Village-Oronoko Township police said no tickets were to be issued in connection with accident.

DRIVER AIDED: Patrolman James Kesterke aids Warren Wienke, 56, Niles, after his car struck trailer, pickup and front of hardware store Tuesday morning, Berrien Springs Village-Oronoko Township police said. Wienke remained hospitalized in stable condition at Berrien General Hospital, Berrien Center, today. (Ellen Bailey photos)

The Continental Can complex has been empty since the paper products firm pulled out in 1975, putting some 1,000 persons out of work. The firm maintained a smaller facility in Three Rivers employing about 150 persons.

In addition to purchasing the Continental building from a steel union pension fund, GM also bought some 120 acres of vacant land adjoining the site for future expansion.

Buchanan, Cass Remain Unbeaten

No Home Court Edge In Bud

The home court advantage didn't work well at all in Blossomland girls basketball action Tuesday night as all four home teams lost.

Buchanan and Cassopolis, both unbeaten in league play, tumbled up for their battle next Tuesday by getting wins. The Bucks got by Lakeshore 62-37 and the Rangers topped Columbia 67-35.

In other conference action, Dowagiac beat River Valley 33-35 and Brandywine stung Edwardsburg 47-40.

It was the usual Buck victory — four girls scored in double figures. Lynn Bobb led the way with 17. Patricia Vanderbush scored 15. Tracee Hargreaves added 13 and Sharon Rottman netted 10.

Deanne Gieffe had 10 for the Lancers, 3-6 overall and 1-3 in the league.

Lakeshore kept it close in the first quarter, only trailing 26-12. But stretched its lead to 35-21 at the half and 58-26 after three quarters.

"From a basketball standpoint, Buchanan is fun to watch," commented Lancers coach Bill Davison. "But from a coach's standpoint, they are frustrating because they have no attackable weaknesses. (Tracy) Hargreaves may be one of the keys to the club. She does so many things, and takes the pressure off Patricia."

Lakeshore won the junior varsity contest.

Cassopolis' Billie Gots continued her scoring rampage as she netted 35 points against the Cornets, 1-3 in the Bud and 2-5 overall. Roschell Ventresca added eight points.

The Cornets had Kim Bruno with 11 and Nancie Capizzo and Cathy Culver with 10 apiece. Karen Kne led the squad in rebounding with 14. Dorothy Vandenberg hauled in 12 and Bruno had 10.

Cassopolis only held 18-12 and 33-27 leads after the first two quarters. But the Rangers outscored their foes 24-11 in the third quarter to take a 19 point lead.

"They played a man-to-man in the third quarter and played a tighter press," reported Cornet coach Barb Mileski. "The turnovers killed us, too."

The Rangers took the jayvee game, 28-16.

ROTTMAN DRIVES: Buchanan's Sharon Rottman drives past Lakeshore's Nancy McGrath (20) and Jamie Sinkiewicz (33) for two points in Tuesday night's girls basketball game at the Lancer gym. # Area Teams State Rated

'A' Pollsters, Computer Disagree

Four southwestern Michigan teams are listed in today's first weekly Michigan High School Athletic Association power ratings which will determine post-season playoff spots.

Cassopolis and Lake Michigan Catholic are rated fourth and fifth, respectively, in Class C, while South Haven is fifth in 'B' and Lawton fifth in 'D'. The top two teams in each region make the playoffs.

South Haven stands behind Three Rivers, a Wolverine rival which the Rams will square off against next week.

Portage Central of the Big Eight Conference is tied for first in its region in Class A.

The Class A leader is Saginaw Arthur Hill, which was ranked fifth in this week's Associated Press poll.

In fact, the computer did not agree with AP's panel of experts throughout Class A. Adrian and Portage Central, tied in Region 2, Detroit Cass Tech and St. Clair Shores Lakeshore, tied in Region 3, and Port Huron Northern led the other three regions, but none showed up in the AP's top ten.

But the other classes corresponded closely to the AP's poll of sportswriters and broadcasters. Top-rated Grand Rapids West Catholic, Bay City All Saints — tied with DeWitt — and Crystal Falls Forest Park each led their regions, and only two other regional leaders did not show up in their class, top ten.

Watervliet Girls Third

In Red Arrow Cage Race

Watervliet took over sole possession of third place in the Red Arrow conference girls basketball race with a 47-24 win over New Buffalo Tuesday night.

In other league action, Lake Michigan Catholic and Berrien Springs upped their perfect records to 3-0 with victories. The Lakers topped Hartford 38-39 while the Shamrocks headed Bridgman 41-17. Eau Claire got its first league win, beating Galien 51-38.

The Panthers were led by Mike Baiera with 13 points. Keren Gilke was the top Bison point maker with 12.

Watervliet, 2-1 in the league, held quarter leads of 10-3, 22-8 and 34-17 over New Buffalo, 0-4 overall and 0-3 in the conference.

Catholic got 15 points from Brian McQuillan in its win over the 1-2 Indians. Shelly Schmid added 14 points and Sue Spear had eight. Kym Rose grabbed 11 rebounds.

Lori Shindeidecker led all scorers with 17 points.

"We shot real well for the night," commented Lakers' head coach Wayne Stefanich. "We started running a little bit and forced the tempo of the game and got a couple of quick, easy baskets in the second quarter."

The Lakers outscored the Indians 18-2 in the second stanza to zoom out to a commanding 28-9 halftime lead.

Berrien Springs went out to a 10-1 lead after the first quarter and was never headed. Cathy Deeper led all scorers with 10 points and Jackie Backus added nine.

Sarah Walsh had seven points for the Bees, 1-2 in the league. "We were outrebounded," said "Bees" coach Chuck Hodge. "They played a real sharp ballgame."

"Walsh led in rebounding and Chris Svorok did a fine job on the boards and on defense."

Eau Claire had three girls in double figures as the Beavers posted their first win of the season. Melinda Flowers led the team with 13 points. Kathy Rodell added 12 and Karen Layman had 10 points and 18 rebounds.

Sue Heller led the injured Gaels, 1-2 in the Red Arrow, with 15 points and Lori Patton netted 13.

The Beavers, 1-4 overall and 1-2 in the league, only held a 22-28 lead after three quarters, but outscored their foe 18-9 in the last quarter. "We just got better movement and better rebounding in the fourth quarter," stated Beavers' coach Tom Flagel.

Iowa Coach Puts

Blame On Defense

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks ago the Iowa Hawkeyes were riding high, having won two straight, including the highly emotional game against Iowa State.

They since have lost two straight to Arizona State and UCLA, but Iowa Coach, Bob Comminges refuses to blame the defeats as a letdown after the Iowa State game.

"It would be a copout to say that game took that much out of us," Comminges told the Chicago Football Writers on Tuesday in a telephone interview.

"We are not executing defensively," said Comminges. "I thought we had one of the best defenses in the conference. We put all our eggs in one basket and that was defense. So we have to regroup and do it defensively. It's a curable thing."

Despite a 34-16 loss at UCLA, Comminges was encouraged especially by his team's play on offense and the work of quarterback Tom McLaughlin who came back from an injury and played well.

"We had a shot at UCLA," said Comminges. "Tommy Mac played real well and had a good game but the defense couldn't get the ball back for us."

"Tommy Mac is as good as any quarterback in the Big Ten and at times shows signs of brilliance but he has not been consistent," said Comminges. "He did a good job against UCLA. The pieces are starting to fall in."

A rash of quarterback injuries in the opening game forced Comminges to go to his son, Bob Jr., a freshman. Now that McLaughlin is back, Bob Jr. returns to the bench.

How difficult is it to tell your own son he can't start?

"There's no problem with Bob," said Comminges. "He understands. It's his mother that's giving me trouble."

"He played well for a freshman and when the defense was playing well he could do the job but when the defense doesn't play well, a freshman can't do it. He doesn't have that strong arm to bring a team from behind."

"I told the defense not to take away our game plan but they did," said Comminges. "We just have to get the defense together again and get our front four to play a little wilder football."

Iowa takes on Minnesota in a return to Big Ten competition Saturday.

KEY CATCH: Wide receiver Ted Dongvillo of St. Joseph caught a 17-yard pass for a first down in Grand Valley State College's 34-12 win over Northwestern Illinois last Saturday. The catch set up a TD in the third period. Brian Lannon, a defensive back who also hails from St. Joseph, picked off a pass in the final seconds to end a scoring threat. Both are freshmen.

Unhappy Linemen Return To Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots' two All-Pro offensive linemen have called off their bitter 24-day strike against the team, but none too eagerly.

Guard John Hannah and tackle Leon Gray marched separately and solemnly into the Patriots' offices Tuesday, meeting a 5 p.m. deadline set by the National Football League for returning or "retiring."

The players will take up their separate contract squabbles with team owner William H. Sullivan Jr. after the season.

"I was very, very, very close to giving up football," Hannah said at a hastily arranged news conference.

"I was three minutes away possibly from not playing football," said Gray.

The two walked out Sept. 11 before the final exhibition game. The Patriots, expected to be a powerhouse this season, have stumbled to a 1-2 record, losing two consecutive games by 30-27 scores.

A grim General Manager-Coach Chuck Fairbanks said, "I am pleased they are coming back, for their welfare and for the welfare of the ball club. At the end of the season we will negotiate in good faith."

Hannah said he expects "satisfactory (contract) extensions... can be worked out." Gray issued an apology to Patriots fans for "bad feelings" created by the walkout, and he urged them to support the team.

Sullivan was absent Tuesday, but his effervescent son Chuck, a Patriots lawyer, said he was "delighted" with the return of Hannah and Gray.

Gray is under contract through 1979, and Hannah through 1980.

The two claim former assistant General Manager Peter Hadzazy promised new contracts if they made All-Pro, but Sullivan denied it.

The walkout was said to have been staged by the players' agent, Los Angeles attorney Howard Shusher. He also was absent Tuesday, but Hannah and Gray said Shusher told them to make their own decisions.

MAKE THE DEADLINE: Tackle Leon Gray (right) and guard John Hannah smile outside Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass., Tuesday after the two all-pro linemen returned to the New England Patriots. Both players just made the 5 p.m. deadline for reporting back to the team as ordered by a league committee. (AP Wirephoto)

Simpkins Star U-M Linebacker

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ron Simpkins may be the best sophomore linebacker. Bo Schembacher has had in his nine years as Michigan's football coach. Bo's not talking about it though.

"Well, now we've had some good ones like Mike Taylor," Schembacher said, pondering the question about Simpkins. "But, hey, listen. I mean, you know."

The fact is, Schembacher never has been one to heap praise on a sophomore. He might say a senior is a great player or a good player, but he just won't make such comments about his younger players for fear it might go to their heads.

He did call Simpkins "a great kid" and said, "He'll do nothing but get better."

A better Simpkins would really be something. He already is the leading tackler on the No. 3-ranked team in the nation.

defensive player of the week and ABC-TV awarded Michigan a scholarship in his name for the performance.

Simpkins lettered as a freshman last year after winning the Maulbetsch Award as the team's top freshman player-student.

Does he think he's got a chance to become an All-American as a sophomore — a not too common feat?

"I never really thought about it," said the soft-spoken Simpkins, a Cum Laude high school graduate who hopes to major in psychology at Michigan.

Ron's intelligence helps make him such an effective linebacker, contends defensive coordinator Bill McCartney. "He's very heady out there and knows where the blockers are at all times."

Tigers Need To Make Changes To Become Threat

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

OPINION: In the Detroit Tigers' fourth-place finish this baseball season much to crow about?

Popular opinion supports the notion that when a team climbs in the standings from one year to the next, it has improved. Detroit was sixth in 1974; Manager Ralph Houk's first season with the team. The Tigers were fifth under him in 1975 and 1976.

This year they're fourth and you can be sure we'll hear plenty about that over the winter.

The talk from management will undoubtedly center around all the "rising young stars" like Jason Thompson, Steve Kemp, Dave Rozema, Lance Parrish, Lou Whitaker, Alan Trammell, Jack Morris, et al.

It's only natural for General Manager Jim Campbell and his cohorts to take that kind of approach. But obscured, I believe, in the barrage of talk about developing young prospects is the fact that the Tigers — despite finishing fourth in the American League East — were actually worse off than a year ago.

They won 74 games, the same as in 1976. They lost 88, one more than last year. They finished 26 games behind the division champion New York Yankees, two games farther back than the previous season.

Last year they wound up 8½ games out of third place. This year they finished 2½ from third.

Ron LeFlore had 212 hits, 100 runs, 30 doubles, 10 triples, 18 homers, 57 runs batted in, a .325 batting average and 58 stolen bases.

Thompson drove in 106 runs and had 31 homers. Rusty Staub had 22 homers and 101 RBI. Tito Fuentes batted .308. Kemp drove in 86 runs. Rozema had a 15-7 record and 3.08 ERA as a rookie.

Those are some mighty impressive numbers — but the gaps of 26 games from first and 2½ from third are stunningly huge.

It will be asking plenty to expect those same players, if they're all still around, to do as well again next year. Even if they do, what does that mean the others must do to make Detroit a contender?

Mark Fidrych? Sure the Tigers suffered greatly due to his absences caused by first a knee injury, then a shoulder ailment.

And certainly they would have been better off had not Rozema, Morris, Vern Rühle and Steve Foucault been bothered by shoulder problems.

But it can't be assumed that they'll all be back in 100 per cent physical condition next season.

If they are all ready to go next spring, Detroit still must make some significant changes if it is to become a .500 team.

Vanline is in his 26th year as the physician for the Buchanan athletic teams. Tickets are $5 per person and are available from either Ray Berry at Buchanan High School, Richard Dougherty at Schneider's Vending or Dodge Karpinski at Inter-City Bank.

SELDON WALKED — In 1966, Roberto Clemente, then a young star with the Pittsburgh Pirates, went through an entire season drawing only 13 walks.

with a chance of capturing a division title.

The Tigers need a right-handed power hitter, a better shortstop and right fielder and at least two more dependable starting pitchers.

Campbell, a shrewd trader in the past, is going to have to make at least one blockbuster deal this winter. He certainly has more quality trade-bait than at any time in years.

Staub, after a slow start, had one of his better seasons. His 101 RBI are so impressive that the initial tendency is to say, "Wow, we need his bat. We can't afford to trade him."

But imagine what a 101 RBI man could command in trade. Staub will be 34 next April and can't be expected to produce so well for many more years.

Right fielder Ben Oglivie, as usual, had a hot bat late in the season to inch his average up to a respectable .282 with 21 homers and 81 RBI. He's only 28. He should have substantial trade value.

John Wockenfuss proved his ability to hit in the clutch this year. He can catch and play outfield. With Parrish about ready to blossom as Mitt May's backup catcher, Wockenfuss is expendable.

Tim Lincecum, no matter how many times Houk insists he's an excellent fielder, just isn't the answer at shortstop. Not with a .187 batting average, at least. By himself he wouldn't be worth much in trade, but he's the kind of player who can spice up a package deal.

Other players without much of a future in Detroit but with some trade value are Bob Adams, Ed Glynn, Jerry Manuel, Steve Grilli and Bruce Kirm. There are probably some other good prospects in the minors who'll never make it to Detroit because of the emergence of Thompson, Kemp, Parrish and other young Tigers.

Should Oglivie be peddled, Tim Corcoran should get a shot at his job. He's a fine drive hitter with outfield speed and a good glove.

If Fuentes sticks around another year at second, Mark Wagner can easily replace Verzyer at shortstop. Otherwise, Whitaker and Trammell might wind up as the keystone combination a year sooner than expected.

Aurelio Rodriguez is still the best fielding third baseman in the game. He hit only .218, but gets numerous extra base hits and clutch hits. However, if someone wants him badly enough Campbell might not be able to refuse — especially with the decent job Phil Mankowski did at third this year.

Then again, perhaps Campbell wants to trade Mankowski, whose value is diminished because of his inability to play other infield positions.

Chuck Scrivener, .083 average notwithstanding, is a hustling utility infielder with a good glove. I expect him to stick around.

Rühle was a fine pitching prospect a couple years ago, but his shoulder problems and high ERA may get him shipped out.

There are many Tiger fans who, if they had any say, would get rid of Houk. Don't expect anything like that to happen.

Houk, who signed an open ended contract a year ago, will likely be the Tigers manager as long as he wants. Campbell hasn't said a bad word about him in four years and nobody will convince him that Houk isn't the best in the business.

Campbell could help get the critics off Houk's back. All he has to do is pull a few trading coups at the December baseball meetings in Honolulu.

ANN ARBOR INVESTMENTS

SEC Probing Brokerage Firm?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — An investigation into a brokerage firm's handling of a controversial City of Ann Arbor investment account reportedly has been launched by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Detroit Free Press said today the probe stems from a so-called "arbitrage" account managed for the city by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, and which ran a deficit of more than $1 million before it was closed last month.

All losses were absorbed by the brokerage company, the firm said, explaining it paid the money as a good faith gesture and because one of its brokers might have hidden the losses from the city official responsible for the city's investment account.

The SEC declined to comment, but the Free Press said the federal agency is looking into the question of whether the broker, who since has been fired, was supervised properly by Merrill Lynch.

Also under investigation is whether the $100 million arbitrage account was an appropriate investment for the city, according to the newspaper. The purpose of an arbitrage account is to allow the purchase of securities in one market and their sale at a profit in another market.

The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission said the arbitrage transactions violated state law and may have endangered the tax-exempt status of Ann Arbor's securities.

No allegations have been made that anyone diverted city funds, however.

If Merrill Lynch is found to have violated any SEC rules and regulations it could be penalized by the federal government.

Teacher Strike Drags On

By ASSOCIATED PRESS — The only remaining teacher strike in Michigan drags on as Clawson teachers, who appeared on the verge of returning to their classrooms today, vowed instead to continue their week-long walkout.

Teacher union spokesman Tom Fette said Tuesday the school district had not kept its end of a bargain in agreeing to submit key issues to binding fact-finding.

Earlier, Clawson superintendent J.E.N. Spencer said the school board had accepted a teacher proposal to submit issues to binding fact-finding and that the teachers would return to work today.

Fette said, however, the school board refused to submit all issues to the fact-finder. Spencer had said the fact-finder would review salaries, health and life insurance and class size.

The walkout in the suburban Detroit district began Sept. 27 and affects 2,500 students.

In Center Line, the district's 1,800 students were back in class Tuesday, despite teachers' rejection of the latest contract offer. Talks are continuing.

In Ann Arbor, striking school bus drivers continued to make it difficult for some 7,800 students to get to class. The bus drivers walked off the job Thursday, two days after rejecting the school board's latest contract offer.

Carter Adviser Opposes Steel Protection Policy

By PAT KIGHT Associated Press Writer — Despite recent steel industry layoffs, President Carter's top economic adviser says he opposes a protectionist policy for the industry.

And, Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers said Tuesday, the summer's economic pause is temporary.

"If you look at the rate at which sales are rising," Schultze said at a news conference before speaking to the Economic Club of Detroit, "we believe employment and production are going to catch up."

Schultze was asked what should be done about layoffs in the steel industry. Steelmakers blame the layoffs on higher costs and rising imports. Only Monday the Treasury Department proposed special anti-dumping duties against five Japanese firms. It said were selling steel here below their own costs.

Schultze said he opposed protecting the steel industry through import quotas or higher tariffs. "In my judgment, the government should not prop up the steel industry if you only mean propping it up. The steel industry has a number of problems, one of which is layoffs."

"But you have to view the steel industry problems totally, not just in light of imports," he added. "The answer has to come in terms of a healthy economy, not protectionism."

Other problems hampering a complete economic recovery, Schultze said, include the fact that business investment, particularly in plants and other long-term building projects, has lagged badly. Rising oil imports have drained U.S. purchasing power, he said, and inflation — while no longer running at the double-digit rate of a few years ago — continues to be "far too high for comfort."

"The government's major objective is to try and edge the rate downward from the current 8 to 9 1/2 per cent. I don't want to predict we can get it down to zero, though," he said.

Schultze said he was "fairly confident" that, under current economic conditions, the nation's unemployment rate would continue to decline. But he voiced concern over the continued high unemployment among minority persons, particularly young inner city blacks.

Calling the black youth unemployment rate "scandalously high," Schultze said a new $1 billion youth employment program just getting under way should help.

A proposal to end mandatory retirement at age 65, which has yet to go to a Congressional conference committee, would have little impact on the hiring of black youths, he said. But, he added, "It could have an effect on the hiring of women and minorities in mid-to upper-level management positions."

Slight Hike In Car Sales

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic automakers reported a slight hike in sales in September, the last month before most 1978 models hit the market. The September sales totals reported by the four major U.S. carmakers Tuesday were up 2 percent — 856,800 compared to 844,423 the same month last year. The figures were lower than expected, industry analysts said. But they attributed the slackening to impending newmodel introductions by General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. American Motors Corp., the lone U.S. carmaker, to introduced 1978 models last month, showed a 4 percent gain for the month and a hefty 16 percent jump in sales during the final 10-day monthly reporting period.

Gogebic Communities In-Line For Windfall

BESSEMER, Mich. (AP) — Gogebic County communities will share a $300,000 windfall but they may have to pay it back to the county if they want to keep their sheriff's department.

The county board has agreed to give the communities more than $200,000 in county revenue sharing funds and some $100,000 in payments in lieu of taxes from U.S. Forest Service lands. Create Chiantello, the commissioner who proposed dividing the money among the cities and townships, $10 for every resident, suggested that the communities spend the money on law enforcement. He suggested they could make contracts with the sheriff's department.

spending too much money for the sheriff's department and getting little in return, Chiantello has proposed cutting the department to only a bailiff and a turnkey — all state law requires, he says. The sheriff's department primarily patrols the county's townships, which in the last two years have trimmed 2.5 mills from the amount they contribute to the county. Chiantello says since the communities get the most use from the department, they should pay for it.

COBURN: The TV detective

WOODY: Echoes of his life

The Inside Story On Cher Surgery Was For Scars

What is the real story on Cher's recent surgery? Did she have breast reduction or expansion? What's the current situation between Gregg and Cher? — C.D., Los Angeles.

A: Cher's operation was neither reduction nor expansion but to have the scars removed that resulted from an earlier breast reduction operation. She and Gregg are back together and took a house in Westhampton on Long Island during September. The big news is that the record they have been working on quietly will be released in November. Titled "Allman and Woman" (Get it?) the inside word is that it will be an absolute smash hit. If the album is as good as expected, the Allmans plan to spin off a big tour and, hopefully, a television variety show.

Q: We all know that Woody Allen's movie "Annie Hall" was quite autobiographical. What about the film he's working on now? Is that a little slice of Woody's life? — E.G., Boston.

A: Security is tight as always on Woody's new film and maybe three or a half people have even seen the script. But spies tell us there are some echoes of Allen's real life. For instance, one character is an interior decorator — the same profession of the mother of Woody's ex, Louise Lauer.

Q: Sometime back you mentioned that a hit movie was Howed that a hit movie was unproduced. Daniall Haiman's story, "The Dain Curve," was going to be done on TV. Any news on this, and how come it wasn't done as a movie before 1967? — A.B., Fairmont, Mass.

A: Producer Martin Poll has signed James Coburn as the hard-boiled detective in the story. Poll is also hoping to sign Laurence Olivier and Orson Welles for the miniseries. One reason "The Dain Curve" couldn't work as a movie was that it needed to be a six-hour film. For the CBS miniseries it will probably be broken into three two-hour segments. You'll see it sometime next year.

Q: When Felix Reddy hosted the "Tonight" show recently, she had her hair done on. Was that Felix's idea? — G.D., New York.

A: It certainly was. The producers did not feel that Toni Lamond was quite up to the show's super standards, although they all like Toni. There was a big blow-up with Felix, and in the end, Miss Reddy prevailed.

Q: I don't know Frank Sinatra owned a race horse. But there was one running at New York's Monticello Raceway called "Francis Albert S." Now who else would own that one? — J.T., Kingston, N.Y.

A: It's not Frank's. The horse belongs to comedian Pat Henry, known as the "Court Jester" in the Sinatra circle. Every time Frank bets on the horse it loses, but Sinatra's wife Barbara bet four times and won four times. When the horse ran at Monticello, Pat Henry took a booking at the nearby Concord Hotel, explaining: "If the horse loses I can still make enough money at the Concord to pay for the bets."

States to lose some weight. The princess is living in Washington, D.C., while under the care of a doctor specializing in the protein-sparing diet program. That's the diet where you don't eat at all but take daily doses of a protein-supplemented liquid.

Q: As a race-car buff, I've always wondered why they don't do more movies about race drivers. Now I hear that Al Pacino is in a race-car movie. What kind of car does he race? — T.H., Columbia, S.C.

A: Pacino drives a Formula 1 Martin Brabham car. He got his coaching from ex-world champ Jackie Stewart for the role in "Bobby Delfield." It must be a trend because seven other auto-racing movies are in the works.

Pine Grove Asking New Fire Pact With Gobles

GOBLES — The Pine Grove Township Board Tuesday night agreed to ask its attorney and the Gobles attorney to renegotiate a contract for fire protection payments from the two governmental bodies.

That action came after township attorney Kelley Page asked the board to authorize a letter to the city stating the township would no longer continue with the present fire agreement after Jan. 1. The board turned down that suggestion and asked instead for a renegotiation.

Last night's action as the result of discussions earlier this year with Gobles officials over contributions from each unit in the Gobles fire board which oversees operation of the fire department.

An agreement in 1969 between the two units set the contribution at an amount equal to what a one-mill rate in property tax from each unit would raise.

However, last night two township trustees, William Erickson and Jerry Smith told the board they felt that the township is paying more than its fair share because of increasing valuation in the township.

Earlier this year, the township voted to contribute $7,500 while the city voted to contribute $2,500. The township contribution was about $2,500 less than one mill would have raised based on the 1977 state equalized valuation of the township. The figure is determined by multiplying the value by the rate.

The board asked Page to set up a meeting with city attorney William Clement within the next two weeks in an effort to reach a mutually acceptable agreement.

In other action, the board agreed to hold off paying $8,500 to the Van Buren County Road Commission for road maintenance until it learns what other townships are doing.

The road commission made the request in a letter to the board which stated that all its maintenance appropriations were used up last winter for snow removal. The letter stated that the money was needed to continue maintenance work through Jan. 1.

However, Gerald Rendel, Gobles representative to the Van Buren County Board of Commissioners, told the board he did not feel it was necessary to pay the money prior to Jan. 1.

The board decided to wait on a decision until after a meeting of the Van Buren Townships Association slated for Oct. 20.

The board appointed Mrs. Charles (Sharon) Marlow to the township zoning board. She replaces James Larson who resigned several months ago.

The board accepted the lone bid of $10 from Ruth Clayton, Grand Junction, for a piano owned by the township.

Judge Takes Case North

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A judge who wants a first-hand look at his subject matter will move the controversy over oil and gas drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest to a county courthouse in northern lower Michigan. Ingham County Circuit Judge Thomas Brown announced Tuesday he will go to "whatever courtroom is available in the Pigeon River area" starting Oct. 17. The judge said he wants to "get the lay of the land, a look at the territory." The oil and gas industry wants to undertake expanded drilling operations in the southern one-third of the semi-wilderness covering 97,000 acres in Otsego, Montmorency and Cheboygan counties. Environmental groups, mainly the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, are challenging the industry. Pretrial hearings are scheduled to begin next week.

Benton Court Sentences 11; Three Ask Hearings

Three people demanded preliminary examinations on various felony charges; two were bound over to Circuit court for trial, and 11 others were sentenced for misdemeanors in Berrien Fifth District Court Tuesday.

Jamie G. Bass, 17, of 917 Pearl St., St. Joseph, demanded a hearing on a charge of breaking and entering and entering an apartment at Chateau on the Lake, $340 Notre Dame Ave., Lincoln Township, on Monday.

Bass was arrested at the apartment complex by state police. Troopers said that Bryan Hennik, an occupant of the apartment, captured a suspected burglar he found attempting to open his apartment door at 3 a.m. The suspect was turned over to state police.

Carmen K. Wynn, 21, of 1245 Pavone St., Benton Harbor, demanded a hearing on a charge of larceny in a building — the theft of a sweater from Hilltop store, St. Joseph township, on Sept. 29. Court records show Carmen Wynn has two previous convictions of petty larceny and one of attempted petty larceny.

Joe Willie Porter, 20, of 180 Concord Drive, Benton Township, demanded a hearing on a charge of breaking and entering a motor vehicle Monday at Fairplain junior high school, Benton Township. A tape player allegedly stolen from an auto belonging to John C. Brown was confiscated by Benton Township police when Porter was arrested.

Leon Saenz, 26, of 210 S. Mary, Hartford, was bound over to circuit court for trial on three counts of assault with a dangerous weapon — a hammer. He is accused of assaulting William Harold and Peggy Ballard at the Spot Tavern, Benton Township, on June 11.

Richard F. (Buba) Huston, 19, of Route 1, Box 77, Watervliet, was bound over on a charge of breaking and entering a store at 126 N. Main St., Watervliet, on Feb. 19.

offense. Willie James Osby, 18, of 654 Columbus Ave., Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for a probation violation — failure to report. The probation stemmed from a July 5, 1977, conviction of assault and battery.

Larry D. Blackmore, 18, of 326 Cherry St., Benton Harbor, was sentenced to pay a fine and costs of $95 for assault on Michael Parker in Benton Harbor Monday.

ABOUT INFLATION

Economic 'Signals' May Be Misleading

DETROIT (AP) — One of the nation's key economic indicators may be signaling inflation that isn't going to happen because those who pay attention to it are ignoring another indicator, says the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The possibly misleading indicator is the nation's basic money supply, and the important but ignored indicator is the rate at which money changes hands — monetary "velocity," says CEA Chairman Charles L. Schultz.

Speaking to the Economic Club of Detroit on Tuesday, Schultz noted that in 1976 and 1977, the velocity of money grew more rapidly than in other economic recoveries. But recently, "the growth in the money supply has speeded up even as growth in economic activity slowed."

"Is this phenomenon a sign that we are returning to a more normal growth in velocity? We do not yet know the answer to this question," he said.

The basic money supply — cash and deposits in checking accounts — grew from $312.4 billion at the end of December to an estimated $330 billion in the third week of September, according to figures of the Federal Reserve Board not mentioned by Schultz. This 6 per cent increase in nine months has sparked fears among some economists of new inflation since the supply of goods and services is not rising so fast.

That 6 per cent increase was far exceeded on an annualized basis during parts of the period and also has been exceeded by other measures of the money supply such as those that count savings accounts.

But Schultz pointed out that less money changing hands faster can give rise in the same economic activity as more money changing hands at a slower pace, and vice versa.

Insofar as an increase in the money supply balanced a slowdown in the growth of the velocity of money, the increase in supply "clearly would not be inflationary," Schultz said.

"If attention is concentrated exclusively on the rate of change in the money supply, while the influence of changes in velocity is ignored, monetary developments may be seriously misinterpreted, with damaging effects on confidence and expectations," Schultz said.

Velocity, defined as the ratio of the gross national product to the supply of money, is computed quarterly. Using cash and checking accounts as the measure of supply, velocity was 5.8 at the end of June, 5.7 last year, 5.3 in 1973 and 5.1 in the recession year of 1974.

Figures for the third quarter are not yet available.

Jury Finds Lawyer Is Not Guilty

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Attorney Harry Margolis has been cleared of charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of $1.8 million in phony tax deductions for his clients through offshore tax shelters.

A jury acquitted Margolis of the charge Monday. Last Friday, the same jury found the Los Angeles attorney innocent of five counts of aiding in the preparation of false tax returns.

The nine men and three women jurors deliberated more than 40 hours after U.S. District Court Judge William A. Ingram gave them the case Sept. 26. The trial lasted more than six months.

Prosecutors Martin Schainbaum and Gary Shelton, assistant U.S. attorneys, said they "respectfully disagree" with the verdict.

Margolis, who once boasted he could eliminate anybody's taxes and has written books on tax shelters, acted as his own attorney. He was unavailable for comment.

A federal grand jury indicted him Oct. 3, 1975, on the conspiracy count and 25 counts of helping to prepare false tax returns.

Ingram acquitted Margolis on 18 counts of helping prepare false tax returns in July on grounds the prosecution failed to produce enough evidence.

Also acquitted of conspiracy and helping prepare false tax returns was a former Margolis partner, Quentin Breed, 36.

The prosecutors maintained Margolis had set up a complicated system of foreign and domestic trusts and companies which did not exist.

They said he placed clients' money in a Bahamas trust company, wrote "tax-planning memorandums" that laid out financial transactions, passing paper between trusts to give the impression of independent deals.

The result, the prosecution maintained, was that the deals made loan interest deductions and business losses for clients without them actually risking cash.

BUCHANAN — Terry D. Stuck has been named to the newly created position of corporate manager of quality assurance for Clark Equipment Company, according to a company press release.

He will be responsible for carrying forward a company-wide program of placing greater emphasis on product quality, product safety, and product reliability.

Prior to accepting this position, Stuck had served for two years as manager of quality assurance for Clark's axle division in Buchanan. Before joining Clark, he was employed by the Chrysler Corporation in Detroit where he held various supervisory positions in manufacturing and quality assurance.

A native of Traverse City, Stuck earned a bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State University and a masters of business administration degree from Wayne State University.

He is a member of the Sigma Iota Epsilon business honor fraternity.

Indira's Arrest Called 'Clumsy'

By PAUL CRUTKOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Two of India's leading newspapers said today that Prime Minister Morarji Desai's government botched its campaign against Indira Gandhi by arresting her prematurely and jeopardized its future in the process.

The Indian Express and The Statesman, English-language dailies that opposed Mrs. Gandhi's emergency rule, accused the government of "clumsy" work and "monumental incompetence" because it failed to prepare an adequate case against the former prime minister before arresting her Monday night on charges of political corruption.

Mrs. Gandhi was freed Tuesday by a Delhi magistrate who said the government gave insufficient grounds for detaining her. Seeking to capitalize on the court victory, she immediately resumed her speaking campaign against the Janata party coalition that turned her and the Congress party out of office in parliamentary elections last March.

"There has been clumsy work at the crossroads," said an editorial in the Indian Express. "If those responsible for handling the processing of the case against her had gone about it with the deliberate intention of providing Mrs. Gandhi with ammunition for her charge of political vendetta at work, they could not have gone about their business with more skill."

The Express was the principal target of Mrs. Gandhi's campaign to censor the press during the 21 months of emergency rule that completed her 11 years in power.

The Statesman said Mrs. Gandhi's "formidable political talent will capitalize on the dramatic events to further divide the country and sow doubts in the people's minds about the Janata government's motives."

It added that the government's performance during its six months in power "has disillusioned many and will only serve to give credence to the view that inquiries into the ac-more important, fields.

Mrs. Gandhi after her release met with aides and supporters at her home and gave brief interviews to foreign correspondents. She said the magistrate's action vindicated her and proved the Desai government was trying to discredit her politically with "trumped up charges."

Then she flew to Bombay, on the west coast, for three days of speeches in Desai's home state, Gujarat.

The government appealed to the Delhi high court to countermand the magistrate's release of Mrs. Gandhi, and the Central Bureau of Investigation said it would put together a more comprehensive case against her. A government source said the bureau had warned the government the case against her was not ready, but the political leaders insisted on the arrest.

CETA Not Handling Job Applications

Job applications for Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) positions will no longer be accepted at the Berrien County CETA office in Benton Harbor, according to Zelma J. Morris, CETA deputy director. Applications can still be filled out at Berrien OIC, 322 Columbus Ave., Benton Harbor, and Michigan Employment Security Commission offices at 500 Port St., St. Joseph, and the Fairplain Plaza, Benton Township, she said. The county CETA office at 145 W. Main St., Benton Harbor, wasn't intended for a place to file applications, Mrs. Morris said. The other agencies are paid by CETA to take the applications, she added.

Coed Defies Order To Reveal Vote

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A 21-year-old college coed was cited for contempt of court and placed in handcuffs for 90 minutes when she refused to tell the judge how she voted in a recent mayoral election in Ann Arbor.

"I have always been brought up and told all my life that my vote was a private thing and that I'd never have to tell anybody how I voted," she told Circuit Court Judge James Kelley on Tuesday.

The reluctant witness, Susan Vanhatten, was then cited for contempt and taken to the judge's chambers in handcuffs. She was released at the end of the day and instructed to be back in court today.

The action came in the trial of a suit seeking to overturn the results of the election, which was decided last April by one vote. Democratic Mayor Albert Wheeler was re-elected over Republican challenger Louis Belcher, 10,690-10,689, when an improperly marked absentee ballot was thrown out by the Washtenaw County Board of Canvassers.

Belcher filed suit, contending that Miss Vanhatten, a University of Michigan coed, was among 20 voters who unintentionally voted illegally because they were residents of Ann Arbor Township rather than of the city.

Witnesses testified this week that the boundaries between the city and township are unclear, and election officials apparently made a mistake.

"I didn't vote illegally," Miss Vanhatten told the court. "Everyone told us we were Ann Arbor residents. I would have moved back into the city if I had known, because I want to vote in Ann Arbor."
